16 Killed In Detroit Train-Bus Crash

BODIES HURLED FOR 2 BLOCKS ALONG TRACKS

Crowded Coach Starts Across Track After Freight Goes By, Hit By Passenger.

PUPILS ARE AMONG DEAD

Investigators Seek To Learn Identity of Victims; Many Decapitated.

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT—Sixteen persons, including several school pupils, were killed this morning as a passenger train sliced through a crowded Detroit street railways motorbus.

Bodies were strewn along the tracks for two blocks, and some were mangled against the front of the locomotive as the train, a Grand Trunk Western passenger train arriving from Chicago, pulled to a stop a quarter mile past the crossing.

The bus, driven by William F. Clos of Detroit, had stopped at the Caniff avenue crossing while a northbound freight train passed.

Eye-witnesses said that electric flasher signals were operating, but that after the freight passed, the bus started across the tracks into the path of the southbound passenger train.

The front end of the bus cleared the tracks, but the locomotive smashed through the vehicle at its middle doors, cutting it in half. Most of the dead were passengers in the rear end of the bus.

Schoolbooks of the younger passengers on the bus were scattered along the right-of-way. Many of the bodies, some decapitated and others with limbs severed, were impossible to identify immediately.

The front end of the bus, hurled aside as the train struck it, was left on its side close to the intersection. The rear end was smashed to fragments and scattered.

Mary Alla, 12, one of the bus passengers who escaped with slight injuries, said "I was in the front end of the bus and all I know is that there was a crash then I fell down and then some-

Britons Look at Our War Output, Aren't Impressed

CLEVELAND —(AP)— American war production doesn't impress a couple British labor leaders stopping in Cleveland today on a tour of some of the nation's war plants.

"I can't say I was impressed with the speed and production generally," Jack Tanner, president of the Amalgamated Engineers union, said in an interview.

"The plants are new, well laid out, finely equipped, but there doesn't seem to be appreciation for the urgent need of turning out these munitions of war as rapidly as possible."

Tanner's companion, Secretary Arthur Bryan Roberts of the National Union of Public employes, shared these views. They reported women in England are doing a large share of heavy industrial work and that all rules tending to retard production have been lifted.

BLAMES SAILORS

Tavern Keeper Says They Made Him Serve Minors.

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Sailors who won't take "no" for an answer were blamed today by Mark K. Miller, taproom owner, for his brush with the law.

Miller, arrested for serving drinks to a 12-year-old girl and three other minors, pointed to scars on his face and said two sailors beat him the last time he raised a question of age.

Norwegian Vessel Sunk in South Atlantic, Navy Says.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The navy announced today that a small Norwegian merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine late in September in the Atlantic off the northern coast of South America. Survivors have landed at an east coast port.

Five Draft Contingents Set to Leave

First Departs Tomorrow, Others Follow; 350 at Farewell.

Mansfielders were completing preparations today for the series of soldier "send-off" parties which will honor draftees leaving tomorrow and on the next four consecutive week days. Legionnaires feted the entire group at a big celebration at the American Legion last night.

The smallest of the groups will entrain on the Erie at 12:39 p. m. Thursday when 11 men from Board 1 will leave after a short program, commencing at 11:30 a. m., in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room. Men of this contingent have requested that no band accompany them to the station as has been the custom when larger groups leave, Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the Richland victory civic committee, said.

Prayer and a talk by Legion Chaplain Grover E. Swoyer and a few other short talks will precede calling of the roll by the acting corporal of the group. Presentation of gifts of Bibles or prayer books, by the Gideon society, first aid kits, by the Red Cross, books by the Legion, and address cards by the Blue Star mothers will be made as the men leave for the station.

A second group from Board 1 will leave at a similar hour and place on Friday. Board 2 draftees will leave at a similar time and place on Saturday. These contingents will be honored just as the first group except that a band likely will be available to head the parade to the station, Saltzgaber said.

Draftees from Board 3 will also leave from the Erie station at 12:59 on Monday and Tuesday afternoons following similar programs in the courthouse, instead of the Chamber of Commerce.

Approximately 350 attended the party given at the Legion, James Brownscombe, master of ceremonies, estimated. William Wing, a naturalized Chinese draftee, the first to leave this county, was among those enjoying the affair.

Program for the occasion featured: accordion music by John Grabler, tap and acrobatic numbers by Kathleen Watts, Mt. Gilead, accompanied by Ilene Berkey,

GETS HIS BARS

Gable Commissioned Second Lieutenant in Air Corps.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla —(U.P.)— Clark Gable became a second lieutenant in the United States army air corps today.

The former heart-throb of the movies was presented his diploma along with several hundred members of an officer candidate class of the Miami Beach army air force technical training command.

The next step in the colorful career of America's No. 1 screen star is a military secret. He will be assigned to duty, maybe on one of the foreign battlefronts, or perhaps at a domestic post.

His commission came almost 72 days to the hour from the time he donned the khaki of an officer candidate.

Sugar Stamp No. 8 Good Only Until Nov. 1.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio ration officials warned today that only four more days remain in which to use ration stamp No. 8 for purchase of sugar. The stamp, which covered a 10-week period and calls for five pounds, expires at midnight Saturday.

Stamp No. 9 becomes effective Nov. 1 and is good for three pounds during the period ending Dec. 15.

'Veritable Hell' Struck Wasp Just Before Sinking, Survivors Declare

Mansfield Visitor Was on Destroyed Plane Carrier.

Eye witness accounts of the sinking of the U. S. aircraft carrier Wasp came today from the lips of an aviation radioman who visited relatives in Mansfield yesterday and from others back in this country after serving in the terrific sea battles with the Japanese fleet in the South Pacific.

Two Mansfielders, Lieut. Fred C. Harrington, communication officer, and Paul Kopchok, pharmacist's mate, are reported missing as a result of the sinking of the Wasp with which both were assigned.

Explosions of plane-born bombs on the hangar deck were a "veritable hell" declared James P. Sauers, during his visit with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Lincoln, 223 West First street.

Youthful William S. Jones, convalescing at his home in Perry, near Painesville, told of seeing his plane destroyed aboard the Wasp, of rescuing the plane's captain and of swimming through shark infested waters only to undergo an appendectomy following his rescue.

"The first torpedo struck," Jones said, "when I was about 50 feet from the plane on the hangar deck. The plane was blown to hell but I didn't get a scratch. Fortunately most of the boys were off the ship when a big load of bombs which the Wasp carried, let go." Jones, 19, is rated as an aviation machinist's mate, third class.

"The moment after the torpedoes struck," Jack Westbrook, 18, quartermaster third class, said at his home in Tampa, Fla. "I saw the sub surface as a destroyer came up. The destroyer dropped a depth charge and I saw the sub break in two, then the bow went up and sunk."

At his home in Jersey City, N. J. Andrew Noone, radio operator

In the accompanying photographs Andrew Noone, above, is telling his mother at her Jersey City, N. J., home of the sinking of the U. S. aircraft carrier Wasp on which he was a radio operator. Below is James S. Sauters, Ohioan, who visited relatives in Mansfield yesterday and described his escape from the sinking carrier. As an aviation radioman, Sauers told of his acquaintance with the two Mansfielders reported missing in action after the sinking of the Wasp.

Noone supplied a graphic description of the flaming inferno which resulted from the torpedoing of the "flattop" which was escorting troop reinforcements to the Solomons when hit.

17TH CONGRESS RACE CLOSE ONE

Outcome Seen as Determining Factor in Partisanship of Ohio's Delegation.

Outcome of the congressional race in the 17th district between Congressman J. Harry McGregor, Republican, and Samuel A. Anderson, Democrat, forecast as one of the close district contests in Ohio, will go a long way toward deciding the partisanship of the state's next congressional delegation, political experts believe.

A survey of the congressional outlook in Ohio, conducted by the International News Service, shows that the state's delegation to the 78th congress may be so evenly divided between the two parties that one district may determine the delegation's complexion.

Congressman McGregor, seeking his second full term, holds a narrow margin over Anderson, Robert Vincent, INS political writer, said today. He based his prediction on the results of the pre-election survey.

Both McGregor and Anderson believe that the Richland county vote may hold the answer to success in the district next Tuesday. Both candidates are devoting most of their time this week to cam-

U. S. Rushes Work on New Navy Aircraft Carriers.

BOSTON —(INS)— Thirteen new aircraft carriers are under construction today as replacements for the Lexington, Yorktown and Wasp in the American Navy, two high-ranking naval officals disclosed here.

Joseph W. Powell, special assistant to Navy Secretary Knox, told the Navy league that production of war vessels in the past 11 months "represents fighting power added to the navy nearly equal, if not superior, to the entire fleet as it existed two years ago."

Captain Leland P. Lovette, naval director of public relations, disclosed that the 13 new aircraft carriers are being rushed to completion in a talk before the advertising club.

You would be surprised, wouldn't you, if it turned out that you were a better judge of ads than you thought, and received part of the $750 being offered in the Community Survey awards?

There are only two ways to conduct a survey. One is to send interviewers to your homes. You might be busy when they came. You might not give the right answers because hte interviewer unintentionally could suggest the wrong answers.

The other, and perfect way to conduct a survey is to have you do it voluntarily on your own time, sitting comfortably at home, without anyone hurrying or bothering you.

HAMILTON TO BE RENT DIRECTOR

Gets $3,800 a Year Post To Enforce Freeze Orders of OPA District.

Appointment of LeRoy B. Hamilton, 884 Dickson parkway, as Mansfield's rent director at a salary of upward of $3,800 a year, was announced today by the Cleveland headquarters of the Office of Price Administration.

Hamilton's wife is secretary of the Richland county rationing board and serves in a similar capacity with the recently announced gasoline rationing advisory board.

In a dispatch from the Office of War Information today it was learned that rent director salaries range from $3,800 to $5,600, with an indication that Hamilton's wages will be the lower figure.

For a number of years Hamilton was affiliated with the loan company business in Mansfield, retiring about two years ago following absorption of the firm by another concern.

As a war measure the government has placed ceilings on rents for the duration of the emergency, freezing rents at the rate which prevailed last March. Hamilton could not be reached today although Mrs. Hamilton said no information had been received concerning the appointment up to this morning.

St. Peter's Given N-J Trophy, Moving Picture Machine

The boys and girls of St. Peter's grade and high school who went "all-out" in the recent city-wide school scrap drive by collecting close to 60 tons of old rubber and metal had their efforts rewarded yesterday when the school received The News-Journal trophy.

Presentation of the handsome prize at a special noonday high school assembly marked the first of two rewards received by St. Peter's for leading Mansfield schools in the campaign. The other was a motion picture projector presented by parents

PAY INCREASE HALT ORDERED FOR DURATION

Widespread Freeze Order on Salaries, Wages Set Up By Director Byrnes.

HITS PRESIDENT, TOO

Few Exceptions to Edict of Economic Czar Allowed In Inflation Fight.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — That joyous cry, "I got a raise," is out for the duration.

For both captains of industry, and wage earners, the old pay check is going to look the same every pay day, with some few exceptions here and there.

Regulations issued yesterday by Economic Director James F. Byrnes and approved by President Roosevelt generally limit public and private salaries, except those fixed by statute, to $25,000 a year and freezes all salaries and wages up to that amount.

The purpose was to discourage wartime inflation and at the same time increase federal tax revenues by causing corporations to retain amounts formerly paid out in high salaries. The corporations thus would be required to pay taxes levied at a higher rate than on individual earned income.

While there was no regulation preventing a salary decrease, any increase, with certain exceptions, must have approval of the war labor board or treasury.

The president, whose $75,000 salary is the only statutory federal increment exceeding $25,000, has asked the treasury, Byrnes said, that his pay be limited within the regulations.

Allowing for tax deductions and other allowances, treasury officials estimated that a person would have to make more than $67,000 a year to be affected by the $25,000 limitation.

Increases may be granted automatically in these classifications in cases of individual promotions or reclassifications; individual merit increases within established salary rate ranges; operation of an established system of salary increases based on service; increased productivity under an incentive plan, and in the operation of a trainee system.

COLD STAYS

Mercury Drops to 22 But It Will Be Warmer Tonight.

Indicating an early major offensive, Old Man Winter contacted early-rising Mansfielders today with a low temperature of 22 degrees, the lowest Oct. 28 recording since 1925 when the mercury skidded to 17 above zero. Yesterday's low was 23.

Lessening of the skirmish with mittens and heavier underwear is seen in the forecast of warmer weather for tonight and tomorrow. Ice shimmered up at the toiler as he trudged to work in the wartime darkness of the smaller hours but vanished with the brightening sun of midday.

High temperature recording to the 24-hour period ending at noon was 41, for an average of 33.5 as compared to a 17-year mean of 46.4 degrees. At noon the thermometer registered 45.

Army, Marines Repulse Enemy Land Thrusts

Tokyo Lets Up on Fantastic Claim American Fleet Is Destroyed.

(By United Press)

Tokyo said today that a naval battle in the southern Pacific still was raging, although previous Japanese reports had claimed that the United States fleet was "destroyed" in the Solomon islands area Monday.

The Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi, quoted by the official German DNB agency, said, "we are really curious to know how Washington will try to keep secret from the U. S. American people the crushing defeat of the U. S. fleet."

Then it added:

"Although the naval battle in the southern Pacific is still in progress and the final result, therefore, cannot be foreseen, it can, however, be said, according to local naval quarters, that this is one of the greatest naval battles since the outbreak of the war."

"The enemy has attempted here to start an offensive against the Solomon isles and the Japanese naval formations stationed there by using the strongest forces in order to bring about a decision in this theater of operations," the newspaper continued.

"This attempt has become a complete failure."

Nichi Nichi, like the rest of the Japanese press and despite its statement that the battle still was in progress, then claimed that "the main enemy forces were annihilated" Monday.

Naval Battle Rages On, Two More Jap Warships Sent To Bottom.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—American and Japanese warships boiled through the southwest Pacific in a titanic slugging match for control of the bomb-scarred Guadalcanal airfield today while on the island itself land forces were locked in mortal combat.

Latest reports from the battle zone showed action was continuing at a furious pace over a wide area and both President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Navy Knox said the results were not yet clear.

Two Japanese destroyers have been sunk, last night's navy communique reported, one enemy battleship has been hit, a cruiser badly damaged and a destroyer hurt.

(American sources in London said the U. S. Navy was greatly outnumbered by the Japanese in the southwest Pacific but that the numbers would be equalized before long.)

In the epic land battle on the north shore of Guadalcanal Japanese forces broke through the American south flank during the night of Oct. 25-26 but were thrown back by army troops who regained their temporarily lost positions.

On the west flank, held by marines against a smashing series of attacks that have been under way since last Friday, the navy reported the enemy was forced to

VICTORS: British Score In Largest Tank Clash of Drive

BULLETIN

CAIRO—(AP)—United States fighter pilots bagged seven of the 18 Axis planes shot down yesterday over North African battle areas, for their best score since the start of the new Allied offensive in Egypt.

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO—The next phase of the new battle for North Africa was shaping up today in the widening gaps in the Axis desert defense line as Britain's army of the Nile and Field Marshal Rommel's invaders rolled an increasing weight of tanks into the first clashes of an expected crucial test of armored power.

A British communique which reported "further progress" Monday night and unabated attacks on the German-Italian line throughout yesterday said that the British came out on top in the first main test of armor.

"Yesterday," it declared, "an armored clash on a larger scale than hitherto developed. After considerable fighting the enemy were driven off with a considerable loss. Our own losses in tanks were light. Fighting continues."

Dispatches from the front indicated that the Axis tank losses already had been considerable, although the main mass of Rommel's tanks still were poised back of the battlefront, where they have been under continued bombing and strafing.

Prisoners who streamed back along the British supply lines said they had been under a deadly battering by the Allied artillery barrage which has been thundering since the outset of the British push, now in its fifth day.

The Allied air forces kept Rommel's planes on the defensive yesterday except for a single attempted Stuka attack, and scored 18 to 6 over the Axis in planes shot down in combat.

The British reported that the furious drive to open up a path for the heavier armored formations continued with "no abatement" throughout Monday night and Tuesday.

The superior Allied air strength was used night and day against enemy concentrations and forward

SMASHED: Nazis Forced to Retreat In Western Caucasus

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Red army defenders of the cliff-sided mountain road to the Black sea port of Tuapse have turned the tables on the Nazis in the western Caucasus with a smashing counter-assault which forced the Germans into a retreat that started several days ago, battlefront dispatches reported today.

In Stalingrad, a German onslaught renewed at deadly cost, gained the invaders two more debris-littered streets, but the main Russian lines held, and northwest of the besieged city the Red army's relief offensive bit menacingly deeper into the German flank across the sodden steppes.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, said autumn rains had turned the Don-Volga steppes northwest of Stalingrad into a quagmire where the enemy's mechanized forces bogged down.

There Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's attack on the Nazi flank was said to have scored steady gains. Pravda disclosed that the Germans were driven from a key defense position there three days ago, and had lost 7,000 men in a hail of mortar and rifle fire which beat off their attempts to recapture it.

In this salient alone the Germans were said to have lost 57 tanks destroyed and 150 damaged and captured.

Red Star said the Russians had recaptured an important hill in the active defense of the Caucasian Black sea coast and continued to press the enemy.

Ambushed in a deep ravine, a regiment of Axis infantry escaped only with the loss of about two

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1942

We of the United Nations have the technical means, the physical resources, and, most of all, the adventurous courage and the vision and the will that are needed to build and sustain the kind of world order which alone can justify the tremendous sacrifices now being made by our youth. But we must keep at it—we must never relax, never falter, never fear—and we must keep at it together.—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Gloomy Tidings From the Solomons

MANSFIELD'S impressive observance of Navy day was given a somber tone by news of naval losses in the Far East and realization that a great test of strength is now going on in the Solomons.

Amid tributes to the navy, and to the men who are serving in that branch of the nation's armed forces, there was the sobering thought of what lies ahead before victory can be achieved, and of the herculean task which confronts civilian workers in producing the ships, planes, guns and other war equipment that must be provided for the men who are called upon to fight on the seas, on land and in the air.

Day-to-day happenings in the Far East, where American forces are at grips with Japanese barbarians, have thus far presented a gloomy picture of heroic struggle against great numerical odds—as was the case during the heartbreaking defense of Bataan and other places where poor preparations had been made to meet Jap onslaughts.

It may be prayerfully hoped that no such situation has, or will, come about at Guadalcanal, or elsewhere in the Solomons area, but what appears evident is that the Japanese military power was greatly underestimated at the start and that the people of the United States will be required to expend much greater energy than has yet been done if the United Nations are to finally emerge as victors in the Pacific conflict.

The public should be as fully informed on actual conditions in the Far East as is possible without revealing military secrets that might help the enemy. If greater effort is needed to win the war the people should be told about it—so that millions of them won't dilly-dally through another six months or a year quibbling about wages, hours, profits, taxes and minor inconveniences at a time when their homes, their freedom and their lives hang in the balance.

The Associated Press Answers

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS has filed an answer in the government's anti-trust action which seeks to throw AP membership open to all newspapers that make application and are willing to pay for the service.

The answer makes specific reference to the unsuccessful attempt of Marshall Field's Chicago Sun to gain Associated Press membership and recites activities of the anti-trust division of the federal bureau of investigation in advance of action on Field's application, which was construed as a "threat of litigation and not a bona fide application for membership in the AP."

The Associated Press, it should be borne in mind, is a non-profit group of newspapers which share in the cost of gathering and distributing news, and membership is attained by favorable majority vote of newspaper publishers already in the organization. The Chicago Sun was denied membership by a vote of 684 to 287.

A point of interest in the answer is that "the growth of competing news agencies has been fostered instead of hampered by AP through restriction of AP's service to its own members."

This refers to the United Press and International News Service—both of which are operated for profit, and on which a number of successful newspapers depend for service, to exclusion of the AP.

Denying monopoly of the news-gathering field, AP presents the argument: "Were AP obliged to admit to membership every newspaper which was prepared to pay its pro rata share of the cost of gathering and distributing the news, AP would not only become a commercial news agency, but, in view of the good will attaching to its name over a long period of years, it might well become the only news agency furnishing complete news coverage. The presently unfounded charge of monopoly in the collection and distribution of news might then be substantiated in fact."

The outcome of this action is of far greater importance than may appear on the surface, for the principle upon which agents of government base their charges against the Associated Press, would, if finally upheld by the supreme court, forbid selection of associates in any co-operative enterprise and would seriously challenge the right of patent protection and other incentives to initiative.

Gas Rationing and Tire Limit

MOTORISTS who have not yet become "war conscious" will not be permitted to continue in that condition very much longer, as additional restrictions on speed and distance-driving are moving toward full operation within the next few weeks.

These include gasoline rationing, for which registration will start November 9; relinquishment of all tires in excess of five for each car owned; periodic tire inspection, and observance of the 35-mile speed limit in order to retain eligibility to new tires or recaps.

Announcement has already been made of the way in which surplus tires can be turned over to the government at ceiling prices based on condition, and it is advised that this be done in advance of the time for gas rationing registration, as applications must show ownership of not more than five tires per car.

Nazi Attitude Toward War

TO MOST people war is as dreadful an evil as can be imagined, except, of course, domination by the Axis nations. Yet aggressor countries do not regard it in this light. In fact, they seem rather pleased with it. Consider these words of General von Bock, Hitler's commander in Russia:

"Wars are not only inevitable, but essential as population regulators. They are like an endless game of cards. Sometimes one person wins, sometimes another, but the clever player manages to keep his average high."

This cold-blooded attitude toward so great an evil is only one of the many counts that make the civilized world so anxious to wipe out Nazism.

Debate challenges are seldom accepted by campaigners these days—but, come to think of it, the Lincolns and Douglasses are also rather scarce.

Some Republican Gains Predicted

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Here is a sort of cross section of what some of the old political wiseheads think about the state of mind and political situation of the country.

First they expect more gains in the senate for the Republicans than had been expected a little while back. They think three states are fairly sure to replace Democrats with Republicans in the upper house. These three are South Dakota, Iowa, and Colorado, in that order of probability. To this many of them add Delaware and a few add Michigan. Finally, the most optimistic add Wyoming, New Jersey and Rhode Island, in that order.

This makes a total of eight POSSIBLE gains. Offsetting these are a couple of bad spots, notably New Hampshire, where Senator Styles Bridges is in trouble.

Actually, a net gain of from three to five seems probable for the G. O. P. There is much talk about Nebraska, but despite the strength of both the Republican and Democratic candidates most of the old timers simply refuse to believe that Senator George W. Norris can be beaten.

It's anybody's guess as to the precise number of seats in the house that the Republicans will gain, but it seems fairly sure that they will make a net gain of not less than 20, and which may easily reach 50 if the present obvious trend continues.

THE most spectacular fight of all is not for senator or representative, but that in New York, for governor, between Thomas E. Dewey and John J. Bennett. An astonishing number of old line Republicans privately hope that Bennett will win, because they think that would make James A. Farley a thorn in President Roosevelt's side, and would, they are inclined to think, do more to hurt the president than would the election of a Republican governor in the Empire state. Many of the president's close friends seem to take the same view, for they are doing everything they can to help Dewey's election by supporting Dean Alfange, the Labor party candidate.

The same men who predict these Republican gains in the house, and senate, and who think Dewey will be elected but would prefer Bennett, say that the Republican trend is much stronger in the west than in the east. They think FDR has lost his hold on agriculture, because the farmers think that labor, and not the farmer, is the pampered pet of the administration.

They also think that the New Deal, but not Roosevelt himself, has lost ground tremendously. In fact they think if it had not been for FDR himself the country would have rejected the New Deal in 1940. This may or may not be true, but it is dangerous to attempt to refute it with logic. There is very little logic in politics.

NONE of this casts any shadow which might be reasonably interpreted as forecasting the 1944 presidential election. Nor will the election results next month, no matter how strong a trend they may seem to indicate. Most of the off year elections have gone against the party in power. Sometimes they seemed to predict a presidential upset next time. In fact up until FDR it was almost regarded as a fairly safe political rule. But the G. O. P. gains of 1938 were followed by the Roosevelt landslide against Willkie.

None of this has anything to do with the prosecution of the war. The country seems to be as united about that as about anything in history.

Listen World!

Beside Still Waters

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

LONG AGO, when we were first building the ranch, I wrote about this. Now, in the dust and confusion of building another world, it comes back to me, steadying me. Perhaps it will comfort you too.

It was tough work, building, in those early days. No roads, except hand-grubbed trails through the tangled chaparal. No water, except that which which we dragged over snagged rocks from a distant spring. No gardens. No shelter except the shadow of some towering pine—and those who sought shelter didn't eat. Slow, sweaty work under a blistering sun and nagging rumpus, day after day.

But over the hill it was different. Over the hill, between the pines, down a long slope, lay a little meadow and a quiet stream. No matter how hot or dusty the ranch site, the meadow was as cool and restful as a friendly hand. Dropping down to it from the fierce glare, one seemed to sink into a deep, green pool.

The clover grew knee high, and tangled in the clover there were tiny flowers—pearl white and lavender. Above it, in a living, quivering web, there swept a mist of small bright butterflies, lemon and blue and brown.

Beyond the meadow ran a fringe of willows, gnarled old apple trees and wild blackberry vines. Beneath, the brook flowed amber dark and cold, with golden ripples where the sun broke through the leaves. That was the only sound—the deep, soft chuckling of the pool, the faint, soft whisper of the clover field.

Most times I worked. But sometimes, tired or bewildered, I would go away . . . and lie deep in the clover near the pool. And slowly all the hurt and fear would ease. The anger and the questioning would cease. And for a little while I'd be a part of that cool, quiet water and the fragrant land.

And leave the rest to God.

I think there should be such a place in every life. Not actual brooks perhaps, nor gray, green apple trunks, nor clover fields webbed over with blue butterflies. But some place in the spirit that is still, where fear and anger can give way to peace. Some place like old King David found when, after battling years, he sat and wrote,

"The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul . . ."

I think there should be such a place in every life. And there can be, no matter how great or humble, how wise or simple we may be.

A place away from war news and war hate—

A time away from fear and questioning—

A little space apart where we can lie, as I lay in that clover field, and shed our dusty selves—

Not thinking, judging, doubting, arguing—

But opening our tired souls to peace—

Leaving the rest to God.

Interpreting the War News

Willkie's Plea for Second Front Tops London Interest In Speech

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

LONDON—Wendell Willkie's address to the nation is receiving much attention in the London press and it is significant of the trend of a considerable section of public opinion here that the reiteration of his demand for a second front in Europe gets a special display.

That is to say, the opening of the great Allied offensive in Africa does not seem to have dimmed belief in the necessity of action in western Europe to meet the call of Russia.

Undoubtedly, the reason is that the man in the street is aware that only this direct assault on the continent can force Hitler to withdraw great strength from the eastern front.

The offensive against the Axis in Egypt is a most heartening exhibition of Allied initiative. The battle of Egypt, however, presents a curious anomaly. Hitler might conceivably win the war by gaining control of this strategic Mediterranean area. But the Allies can't win the war solely by retaining control. They must, in addition, strike directly at the heart of Hitlerism—Germany.

That is not a matter of argument. The Allied high command recognizes the necessity of hitting Hitler through Europe and has promised a second front there as soon as feasible.

There can be no major invasion with a land army until the American and British air forces have prepared the way by bombing Hitler's war industries and communications into such a state of devastation that he will be close to impotence.

It would mean a mass slaughter of Allied troops for us to try to land a great army before our combined air forces had ironed out the continent.

Obviously the arrival of the time when it will be feasible to open this great second front must depend on how soon our bomber fleets get into action.

Military experts here insist that Hitler must not be allowed to take advantage of a lull in the winter fighting to repair the damage he has suffered in the Russian campaign.

Britain should be able to provide a part of the increase in the bomber force, but undoubtedly great dependence must be placed on America's larger resources.

If we can get these fresh forces into action in the near future we may be able to nail Hitler's hide on the barn door by next fall.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Back in 1940, when John L. Lewis, then just about kingpin in the CIO, put his chips on Wendell L. Willkie, I remember using a quote from someone who knows the old union rebel better than any one else. The quote was: "Don't forget that first and always, he's a good gambler."

In 1940, Lewis lost and for quite a while after that it appeared that his chips were dwindling. Whether they still are remains to be seen, but by his announcement that he is withdrawing the United Mine Workers from the CIO, Lewis has certainly demanded a new shuffle.

The question now is can Lewis gather enough supporters around him from the independent unions and possibly from dissatisfied unions in the CIO and AFL, to rebuild the power he once had.

HE IS, of course, employing the old battle strategy of divide-and-conquer. According to labor observers here, Lewis' plan had this advantage: his opponents were already divided.

In addition, there are some potent independent unions that have nothing to do with either the CIO or AFL, which might be recruited on a new front.

Considering these things, is it any wonder that Lewis was willing to call for a new stack and another deal?

THE talk of a "labor peace" between the A. F. of L. and the CIO has been kicked around ever since Lewis led the original rebellion. There have been times when it appeared more impossible than it has in recent weeks. But to those who know the extent of the jurisdictional differences, it never has appeared likely. The war effort hasn't changed the situation at all. In many instances, it has widened the gap.

A quick glance at the rapid growth of union membership in the last year or so will make that understandable. Where the AFL and CIO once fought over hundreds of members and jurisdiction on a score of jobs, they now have to settle those same problems multiplied by hundreds.

Probably a much more important factor in the now three-cornered labor union struggle is the trend which manpower legislation will take.

If it comes down to work-or-fight ultimatum, with wages controlled, the union game may have to be called off for the duration for lack of cards—at least so far as the three leaders are concerned.

As a matter of fact, with James F. Byrnes now firmly in the saddle as stabilization czar, and likely to be able to call forth any further legislation necessary to enforce enonomic controls on all fronts, that time may already have arrived.

Man About Manhattan

More or Less Funny

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I've been hearing such a raft of stories about army inductions and medical examinations that I can't think of a better way to start today's communique than by relaying a few. It's said they are old stories, revived in every war, but if that's true, you wouldn't have heard them for 25 years.

One told by Leonard Lyons of the New York Post concerns an armless man. Much to his surprise, the armless man was accepted after his physical examination. Explained the army doctor: "We've got a blind man filling gasoline tanks, and you can tell him when to quit."

Ish Kabbible of Kay Kyser's band says: "The way they examine you now, one doctor looks into your left ear and another doctor looks into your right ear, and if they can't see each other, you're in."

Frank Fay: "If you can see lightning and hear thunder, you're in."

Ed Gardiner: ("Archy" of "Duffy's Tavern"): "If they feel of you and you're warm, you're in."

Eddie Jaffe, self-styled ugliest press agent on Broadway. "When I got rejected I asked the doctor if it was because of my eyes. He said: 'No, not exactly, but next time you're examined you'd better bring around a Seeing-Eye dog that hasn't got flat feet.'"

THERE'S only one kind of a marine, and that's a fighting marine. Sgt. Woodrow Sporn is one, and Sgt. Murray Lewis is another. It was through Sergeant Lewis I learned that Sergeant Sporn is the author of a new ballad called "He's a Marine." Now Sergeant Lewis, before he put on a uniform last spring, was tub-thumper for the Stork club, and launched the deb-of-the-year career of Miss Oona O'Neill, so I was used to being tipped off to miscellaneous gems of information by the gentleman.

Which brings us to Sergeant Sporn, a slender, serious Brooklyn boy who was educated at Johns Hopkins, the University of Virginia and Columbia university in order to become one of our more successful writers of soap operas. With the marine corps' 167th anniversary coming up Nov. 10, Sergeant Sporn got to thinking about how few marine songs there are. He never had written a song in his life, but he went to work on one anyway.

SERGEANT SPORN got the lyric done, but was stumped for a tune. He appealed to Mitchel W. Post and Marion Barry of Tin Pan Alley, and they turned out a tune. Vaughn Monroe has introduced the ballad, recordings have been made, and what happens to "He's a Marine" on and after Nov. 10 is in the laps of the juke boxes.

As I said, there is only one classification of marines. Sergeants Sporn and Lewis signed up as battle correspondents. They'd like to be in the Solomons, doing their fighting by day and war correspondence by night. But they were assigned unexpectedly to press work in New York, and were somewhat nonplussed. The point I've been building up to—you should know that the song's profits go to navy relief, and that the marine corps has been getting a good press lately—is that Sergeants Sporn and Lewis, a couple of fighting marines seen their duty and they done it.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Seven-Day Week.

It is as well to start with the confession that the honest-to-goodness origins of the seven-day week is hidden by the mists of time.

Not that we cannot, despite the obscurity of antiquity, hazard a speculation that well may turn out to be the truth.

As reasonable a conception as any is that we have inherited the seven-day week from ancient Babylonia.

According to this theory, the seven-day week derives from the sun, moon, Mars, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus and Saturn.

Contributing to the establishment of the seven-day week was the fact that seven was regarded anciently as a lucky number; also, completion of the moon's phases took twenty-eight days, conveniently divisible into four periods.

Nature Looks Ahead

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

NATURE is marvelously forehanded and prompt in providing for another season. Even now, while piles of scarlet and golden apples are shining beneath the orchard trees, enlarged gray fruiting buds for next year are on every knobby spur.

Before the leaves have fallen from the young peach trees, the bloom for next year's fruit is present. I tore off only one gray fuzzy bud and carefully pressed it open with my thumb nail. In it I observed all the embryonic parts—the tiny, tender petals, the stigma, the style, the ovary, the wee thready antlers,—all in a soft gray package, neatly wrapped and stamped by Mother Nature's own large hands—"To be opened by Warm South Wind in early May."

THE lily pads on the pond are brown and tattered. What blooms remain are small and remain open day and night, as though disrespectful of any curfew. All summer these gracious blooms would close securely at nightfall and open to the sun's warm touch at morning. But within the ooze, the fleshy roots lie buried, with distended cells of starch to feed a new plant, another spring.

Long tap roots of alfalfa—fleshy bitter roots of dandelion have received and stored nourishment from the leaves bathed in dew and sunshine through long summer hours. Here, secured deep beneath the soil, they hold a portion of each day's warmth and energy, the stored up goodness of shimmering fields basking in sunshine.

I suppose our garden can boast a greater variety of weeds than any in the neighborhood. Not one but has its individual case of seeds. Burdocks and spanish needles lead in nuisance—the long-haired white dog is burdened many times a day. I see him lie in various sunny spots about the lawn and comb them from his coat with his teeth. Next spring those seeds will sprout. . . . At least for a time they will add as fresh and tender a touch of green as any bluegrass. Heads of old zinnias droop but seeds are there. Marigolds, asters, hollyhocks—even the neglected radish bed yields pods of progeny.

Buds, roots and seeds are storage houses for future beauty and goodness. The world goes on. Winds blow, storms come—but Mother Earth is steadfast.

BRITISH SCORE IN FIRST TEST

Report Enemy Driven Back In Largest Tank Encounter of New Desert Drive.

landing grounds and light bombers and fighter-bombers raided the Matruh dock area. Night fighters shot down a Junkers 87 during the night, the communique said.

The slow, hard struggle across miles of strongly-held desert positions was expected to continue for some time before sufficient ground was cleared for an Allied flank blow at the armored backbone of Rommel's army.

(The German news agency DNB reported last night that British tanks were attacking in waves on the northern flank of the Axis line, where, the agency said, the largest part of Allied tank forces were concentrated.

(These attacks failed to achieve any noteworthy success, DNB said.)

Allied aircraft, including American bombers and fighters, were constantly scouring the battle area and the desert reaches behind it and the latest dispatches from the front told of a bitter air battle between Allied planes and a group of Axis dive bombers escorted by fighters.

Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton disclosed that United States air forces were using American bombs for the first time to smash at Axis concentrations behind the lines.

"The thing that has impressed me most about our men is their guts and fireless energy," General Brereton said last night at a press conference. "The same qualities are possessed by the RAF, but the German pilots' ability in this theater is not so good as a year ago, possibly due to losses and the fact that the new men haven't got the stuff the others had."

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

I THINK THESE ADS WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

EACH DAY OF THE WEEK ..... TO .....

	LARGE ADS	MEDIUM ADS	SMALL ADS
Sun.
Mon.
Tues.
Wed.
Thurs.
Fri.
Sat.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

KIDNEYS MUST FUNCTION WELL

For You To Be Healthy

Every hour never stopping. The Kidneys are nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and wastes out of the blood. The process of urine secretion goes on constantly at the rate of about a drop every thirty seconds from each kidney. They help most people to pass about three pints daily. Try BEE BEE'S, a liquid stimulating diuretic.

VIRGINIA RUTH PALMER HAS WEDDING IN MAINE

Former Mansfielder Becomes Bride of Lieut. E. M. Herrick at Fort Williams on Oct. 25; Make Home In Portland.

WORD was received here today of the marriage of Miss Virginia Ruth Palmer, formerly of this city and now of Portland, Me., to Second Lieut. Eleson Merrill Herrick of Fort Williams, Me. The wedding was an event of Oct. 25. Major William D. Veazie, chaplain, performed the ceremony in the chapel at 2:30 p. m.

Mrs. Herrick is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Wirts Palmer and the late Mr. Palmer. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Orville Herrick of Russell, Minn.

Preceding the exchange of vows Tech. Sgt. Harry Lund played "O Promise Me," by Reginald De Koven, and "The Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin." During the ceremony "Andantino In D Flat," by Lemare, was played softly. The recessional was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The former Miss Palmer's wedding gown was of white satin fashioned with a short train, long sleeves and sweetheart neckline. The lace yoke was trimmed with seed pearls. To the bride's Juliet cap of pearls was attached her fingertip length veil. Her only jewelry was a gold locket, gift of the bridegroom, and her flowers were white carnations arranged in a front style bouquet. Miss Elizabeth Cole of this city, close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Her aqua gown was of marquisette and satin and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations similar to that of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Palmer was attired in a Hunter's Green wool ensemble with black accessories and a corsage of white pompon chrysanthemums. Ushers for the ceremony were Lieut. Walter E. Scott and Lieut. Robert Burchett, both of Fort Williams. Lieut. Millard McKinsey of Fort Levett, Me., served as best man for Lieut. Herrick.

Those in the wedding party and Mrs. Ford Studebaker of Washington, D. C., were guests of Mrs. Palmer for dinner at the Columbia hotel Sunday evening. Lieut. and Mrs. Herrick are planning to take a wedding trip in the near future. They are now at home at 26 Stanley street in South Portland, Me.

Mrs. Herrick was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and Mansfield Business Training school. She had been employed as secretary at Johnny Appleseed junior high school. The bridegroom was graduated from Marshall high school in Marshall, Minn., and attended Mankato State Teachers' college at Mankato, Minn., before entering the army in January, 1941.

Out-of-town guests in attendance at the wedding were Mrs. Studebaker of Washington, D. C., and Miss Cole of this city.

A Woman's a Two-Face . . . . .

By BETTY CLARKE
(Wide World Beauty Editor)

Are you a two faced woman? If not, you ought to be. I'm speaking of makeup—not how you treat your friends.

One face is for daytime, the other for evening. The naturalness of daytime makeup doesn't carry over into the dark hours. Electric lights have a way of killing color, so unless you use more vivid makeup you're sure to look anemic. Besides, evening is the time for glamor, so put your right face forward.

This doesn't mean you should have a drawer brimming over with different shades of makeup. All you really need are two sets, one to harmonize with your natural coloring for daytime, the other to give an added glow that will take the lights at night.

If you're a blond, select a light foundation for day and a deeper rosy shade for night. Your lipsticks and rouge should be fairly bright pure reds, the darker hue for evening. Your eyes will look brighter if you wear eye shadow at night, even though you can dispense with it for daytime.

If you're a girl with light brown hair you need makeup that will give it life instead of making it look drab. Carefully chosen powder and foundation can achieve this. Too rosy a tone in the daytime will dull your ash blond or light brown hair. Golden rosy foundation and powder at night are right for your type.

If you're a brunette, before you select your makeup gamut be sure of the tone of your skin. It is ivory or tawny? The lighter-skinned brunett should emphasize the natural tone of her skin with a creamy foundation and rouge and lipstick with a slight tinge of orange. For evening, a shade darker rouge and lipstick will be more effective. Most brunettes can use blue or green eyeshadow (but just a touch!) for daytime and combine brown and colored eye-shadow at night.

If you're a "nut brown maid," whose dark glowing skin is an asset, you'll wear no rouge at night. Brown eye-shadow will give a daytime deepening to your eyes without looking too dramatic. At night, you can choose blue eyeshadow to make your brown orbs luminous. A dark foundation and powder of a golden rose shade are best for you both night and day.

DAY AND NIGHT: Every woman needs two faces, as shown by an exhibition of masks designed by Coty.

Drab Hair Often Can Have Charm And High-Lights

By MME. QUI VIVE

When the woman with drab hair registers complaints about her brain wool she doesn't get much sympathy. Many a hatch of that color has charm, carries charming lights and shadows. The trouble is, the fussy one believes that her locks lack character. She is neither blond, brunette or red head. Well, what of it? She isn't alone in her class. There are others.

As a rule, she has the complexion coloring of the true blond—fair skin or ivory. Her eyes may be brown, hazel or blue. She has a natural tendency to collect freckles, and that maddens her. Now and then she coquettes with the idea of using a bleach on her tresses. A touch of gold would please her. If you are one of her, and if you have in mind a session with the peroxide bottle, let us tell you what you'll be in for.

Drab hair can be bleached successfully. But not by the home experimenter. Accomplished by an experienced operator who understands the effects of chemicals used for the purpose of changing the color of the brain mat, the drab tones can be given life and glitter. Even so, one must find an operator who is conscientious, as well as skillful. Dyeing and bleaching treatments require judgment. One head does not respond in the same manner as the next one.

One fact must be kept in mind: start this transition business and you're in for it for years, it is likely. You can't get the old shade back by wishful thinking. It is a serious step to take.

The first bleaching is success, let us say. One is working then on the virgin color, hair shafts are in a normal condition. If the bleaching medium is the correct one, the hair takes on a lovely blondness.

But nature goes her own sweet way. As the new growth pushes out at the scalp, there is the old drab tone again. Sometimes shafts will extend to the length of five, even six inches a year. Every two months there is an inch of new fur.

This new growth must be touched up. Sounds easy, but it isn't. Applications of the bleaching agent must not overlap. If they do, the color will vary and the shafts will weaken. Peroxide does no harm to the hair; it is the ammonia that is added that makes silky threads harsh and jutelike.

When the hair has been overbleached it is almost impossible to get it in condition again. Drab dyes are sometimes used, but they of course cannot restore softness to the shafts.

One hears about white henna, to be used in place of peroxide. There's no such thing as white henna, never was. It is our old friends, peroxide and ammonia, combined in proper proportions with magnesium carbonate to form a pack. It is easier to apply than the liquid form, is more likely to impart an even color. But the effects upon the shafts are the same.

strict a poker face as I could as Adams went on.

"Lucky for me," Adams said, "the curtain was drawn just enough so I could see inside. I saw Mr. Veritzen sprawled on the couch, and thought his wife probably was in the other room on the bed. I wasn't alarmed, because Milner never would risk doping anybody more than to put them to sleep.

"Then I saw Milner come tiptoeing into the room. He leaned over Mr. Veritzen, nodded to himself, then went out.

Saw Milner Switch Trays.

"In another minute he came back, carrying the tray that had been in our room, only minus one cup, then put the Veritzen tray on a chair and his own on the table, arranged it to look exactly like the one he was taking out, then carried away the Veritzen tray."

"He left nothing to chance, that baby," Dicky commented.

"No, he didn't." Adams said. "I climbed back up the rope to the suite above this, hurried out and did the errand Milner had asked, then came down to the next apartment. The tray was on the floor outside the door, but there was nothing in either the coffee pot or the cups. They'd been washed out."

"I should think he would have been afraid to do that," my father commented, "unless the waiter was an especially confidential accomplice."

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"Dr. Twitchell wasn't in the room when Milner switched the trays," Adams said surprisingly. "Milner came back here as soon as he had fixed Redfield up in Room 1522.

"Right after you left, leaving the young folks in this suite," Adams went on, "Milner took me outside, told me to go into a vacant suite and tell the phone operator, Miss Black, who is one of his stooges, to call him as soon as any call came from this suite, but to be careful, because he wasn't alone. He told her he'd then use a code to give her instructions.

"In a few minutes the call came, and after listening he said, 'Thank you, then, 'Wait a minute,' and turned to us.

"I think some coffee is indicated,' he told Dr. Twitchell, then turned back to the telephone, saying, 'Please arrange to have a tray with coffee and biscuits for three sent up.' Then he added slowly: 'My usual style, remember'."

Message In Code.

"That last was a code, I take it," my father said, as Adams paused.

"Yes, it was," Adams replied. 'Have the trays exactly the same, and bring them first to me' was the meaning.

"When the waiter knocked Dr. Twitchell was in the bedroom with Redfield. Milner told the waiter to bring in our tray and set it on the table, and while the waiter was doing it, Milner stepped out into the hall, as if to look over the other tray and see that it was all right. He's always looking after details, you know."

"Yes, yes, I know," my father said impatiently. "Did you see him put something into the pot of coffee intended for the Veritzens?"

"Oh, no," Adams replied. "He's too foxy for that. His back was toward me and I couldn't see a thing. But you can bet that's when he put in the dope.

"Then we three had our coffee, and then Milner got men to come with a stretcher, and we got Redfield settled in 1522.

Spied on By Adams.

"Milner had asked Dr. Twitchell to stay until he got back, and the doc said he would. As soon as Milner and I got back here, he sent me on an errand to the next floor, but I scuttled up to the apartment above this, which you rent, took the rope kept there and shinned down to the balcony outside these rooms."

My father shot a wary glance at me, so far kept in ignorance of this precaution, but I kept as

JUNIOR MUSIC CLUB.

Iota Sigma chapter of the W. C. T. U. will meet at 2 p. m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Charles Laser, 710 Bowman street. Mrs. Lena Stough of Shelby, county president, will report on the convention held recently at Steubenville.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Oct. 29.

An interesting and progressive day is foreseen from the predominant lunar and mutual configurations. The new, unusual or out-of-the-beaten track ideas and objectives are particularly favored and should receive endorsement from those in power. There is a hint of treachery, suspicion of other undercover menace to be alert to guard against. Artistic and cultural affiliations also flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a particularly happy and pleasurable year in their social, domestic and romantic associations, with many functions and diversions in this respect. Plans and ambitions in some form of exceptional enterprise or in fresh fields of endeavor should progress most favorably.

A child born on this day should have exceptional creative abilities, practical as well as idealistic, which should assure it high place and popularity.

GIRLS FORM NEW CLUB.

The girls of the North American Knitting Mill have formed a Dinner Date club which meets the last Monday of each month. On Oct. 26 Betty Danals was hostess to the group when they met for dinner at the Southern hotel. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 30 with Barbara Kittleberger the hostess.

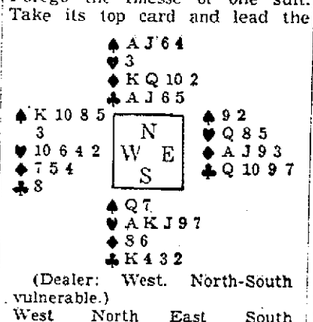
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LOSE ONE TO WIN TWO

A situation of fairly frequent occurrence is that in which you come down toward the end of the play and have possible finesses remaining in two suits. If they are both toward the same defender's hand, and especially if indications are that both of them will lose, you are better off not to try them both. You are then face to face with a marked invitation to attempt a lead-throwing end-play. Forego the finesse of one suit. Take its top card and lead the other to the man marked as having the winner. When he takes it he must then pitch right back into the fork of your second finesse.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♠	Dbl	Rdbl
1 ♠	1 NT	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 NT

As soon as the spade 9 was led and North saw the dummy, he knew East had made one of his habitual shaded not-vulnerable doubles. With two tricks sure in that suit, he could get game with four hearts, two club tops and one diamond. The first trick brought the spade 7, 10 and J, then he finessed the heart J, took two heart tops and led another to set up the last heart. West won, switched to the diamond 4, bringing the K and A, and East used his spade 2 for exit, to the Q, K and A.

Seeing his contract certain, North decided to try for an extra trick by finessing the diamond 10. So he led to the club K, cashed the heart 9 and led the diamond 8 to the 10, the J winning. East put him back with the diamond 9 to the Q. All that North could do was cash his ninth trick, the club 9, then give up the J to the Q.

With four cards left, the diamond Q-10 and the club A-J, and East marked for two of each suit, with probably the missing honors in them, all that he had to do was lead to the club A and make East take the J with the Q. East would have had to lead back toward the diamond Q-10, trapping his own J—or that of his partner, if West happened to have it. There was no risk of West winning that club trick, as he would have failed to follow suit on the second club lead.

If East had made a doubtful spade bid during the auction, what is the soundest defense against South's 3-Diamonds on this deal, doubled by West?

VIRGINIA RUTH PALMER HAS WEDDING IN MAINE

Former Mansfielder Becomes Bride of Lieut. E. M. Herrick at Fort Williams on Oct. 25; Make Home In Portland.

WORD was received here today of the marriage of Miss Virginia Ruth Palmer, formerly of this city and now of Portland, Me., to Second Lieut. Eleson Merrill Herrick of Fort Williams, Me. The wedding was an event of Oct. 25. Major William D. Veazie, chaplain, performed the ceremony in the chapel at 2:30 p. m.

Mrs. Herrick is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Wirts Palmer and the late Mr. Palmer. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Orville Herrick of Russell, Minn.

Preceding the exchange of vows Tech. Sgt. Harry Lund played "O Promise Me," by Reginald De Koven, and "The Wedding March" from Wagner's "Lohengrin." During the ceremony "Andantino In D Flat," by Lemare, was played softly. The recessional was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The former Miss Palmer's wedding gown was of white satin fashioned with a short train, long sleeves and sweetheart neckline. The lace yoke was trimmed with seed pearls. To the bride's Juliet cap of pearls was attached her fingertip length veil. Her only jewelry was a gold locket, gift of the bridegroom, and her flowers were white carnations arranged in a front style bouquet. Miss Elizabeth Cole of this city, close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Her aqua gown was of marquisette and satin and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations similar to that of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Palmer was attired in a Hunter's Green wool ensemble with black accessories and a corsage of white pompon chrysanthemums. Ushers for the ceremony were Lieut. Walter E. Scott and Lieut. Robert Burchett, both of Fort Williams. Lieut. Millard McKinsey of Fort Levelt, Me., served as best man for Lieut. Herrick.

Those in the wedding party and Mrs. Ford Studebaker of Washington, D. C., were guests of Mrs. Palmer for dinner at the Columbia hotel Sunday evening. Lieut. and Mrs. Herrick are planning to take a wedding trip in the near future. They are now at home at 26 Stanley street in South Portland, Me.

Mrs. Herrick was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and Mansfield Business Training school. She had been employed as secretary at Johnny Appleseed junior high school. The bridegroom was graduated from Marshall high school in Marshall, Minn., and attended Mankato State Teachers' college at Mankato, Minn., before entering the army in January, 1941.

Out-of-town guests in attendance at the wedding were Mrs. Studebaker of Washington, D. C., and Miss Cole of this city.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the dance is comprised of Mr. and Mrs. George Hester, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spretzel, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. A Woman's a Two-Face . . . . .

By BETTY CLARKE
(Wide World Beauty Editor)

Are you a two faced woman? If not, you ought to be. I'm speaking of makeup—not how you treat your friends.

One face is for daytime, the other for evening. The naturalness of daytime makeup doesn't carry over into the dark hours. Electric lights have a way of killing color, so unless you use more vivid makeup, you're sure to look anemic. Besides, evening is the time for glamor, so put your right face forward.

This doesn't mean you should have a drawer brimming over with different shades of makeup. All you really need are two sets, one to harmonize with your natural coloring for daytime, the other to give an added glow that will take the lights at night.

If you're a blond, select a light foundation for day and a deeper rosy shade for night. Your lipsticks and rouge should be fairly bright pure reds, the darker hue for evening. Your eyes will look brighter if you wear eye shadow at night even though you can dispense with it for daytime.

If you're a girl with light brown hair you need makeup that will give it life instead of making it look drab. Carefully chosen powder and foundation can achieve this. Too rosy a tone in the daytime will dull your ash blond or light brown hair. Golden rosy foundation and powder at night are right for your type.

If you're a brunette, before you select your makeup gamut be sure of the tone of your skin. It is ivory or tawny? The lighter-skinned brunett should emphasize the natural tone of her skin with a creamy foundation and rouge and lipstick with a slight tinge of orange. For evening, a shade darker rouge and lipstick will be more effective. Most brunettes can use blue or green eyeshadow (but just a touch!) for daytime and combine brown and colored eye-shadow at night.

If you're a "nut brown maid," whose dark glowing skin is an asset, you'll wear no rouge at night. Brown eye-shadow will give a daytime deepening to your eyes without looking too dramatic. At night, you can choose blue eyeshadow to make your brown orbs luminous. A dark foundation and powder of a golden rose shade are best for you both night and day.

DAY AND NIGHT: Every woman needs two faces, as shown by an exhibition of masks designed by Coty.

Drab Hair Often Can Have Charm And High-Lights

By MME. QUI VIVE

When the woman with drab hair registers complaints about her brain wool she doesn't get much sympathy. Many a hatch of that color has charm, carries charming lights and shadows. The trouble is, the fussy one believes that her locks lack character. She is neither blond, brunette or red head. Well, what of it? She isn't alone in her class. There are others.

As a rule, she has the complexion coloring of the true blond—fair skin or ivory. Her eyes may be brown, hazel or blue. She has a natural tendency to collect freckles, and that maddens her. Now and then she coquettes with the idea of using a bleach on her tresses. A touch of gold would please her. If you are one of her, and if you have in mind a session with the peroxide bottle, let us tell you what you'll be in for.

Drab hair can be bleached successfully. But not by the home experimenter. Accomplished by an experienced operator who understands the effects of chemicals used for the purpose of changing the color of the brain mat, the drab tones can be given life and glitter. Even so, one must find an operator who is conscientious, as well as skillful. Dyeing and bleaching treatments require judgment. One head does not respond in the same manner as the next one.

One fact must be kept in mind; start this transition business and you're in for it for years, it is likely. You can't get the old shade back by wishful thinking. It is a serious step to take.

The first bleaching is success, let us say. One is working then on the virgin color, hair shafts are in a normal condition. If the bleaching medium is the correct one, the hair takes on a lovely blondness.

But nature goes her own sweet way. As the new growth pushes out at the scalp, there is the old drab tone again. Sometimes shafts will extend to the length of five, even six inches a year. Every two months there is an inch of new fur.

This new growth must be touched up. Sounds easy, but it isn't. Applications of the bleaching agent must not overlap. If they do, the color will vary and the shafts will weaken. Peroxide does no harm to the hair; it is the ammonia that is added that makes silky threads harsh and jutelike.

When the hair has been overbleached it is almost impossible to get it in condition again. Drab dyes are sometimes used, but they of course cannot restore softness to the shafts.

One hears about white henna, to be used in place of peroxide. There's no such thing as white henna, never was. It is our old friends, peroxide and ammonia, combined in proper proportions with magnesium carbonate to form a pack. It is easier to apply than the liquid form, is more likely to impart an even color. But the effects upon the shafts are the same.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Oct. 29.

An interesting and progressive day is foreseen from the predominant lunar and mutual configurations. The new, unusual or out-of-the-beaten track ideas and objectives are particularly favored and should receive endorsement from those in power. There is a hint of treachery, suspicion of other undercover menace to be alert to guard against. Artistic and cultural affiliations also flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a particularly happy and pleasurable year in their social, domestic and romantic associations, with many functions and diversions in this respect. Plans and ambitions in some form of exceptional enterprise or in fresh fields of endeavor should progress most favorably.

A child born on this day should have exceptional creative abilities, practical as well as idealistic, which should assure it high place and popularity.

GIRLS FORM NEW CLUB.

The girls of the North American Knitting Mill have formed a Dinner Date club which meets the last Monday of each month. On Oct. 26 Betty Danals was hostess to the group when they met for dinner at the Southern hotel. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 30 with Barbara Kittleberger the hostess.

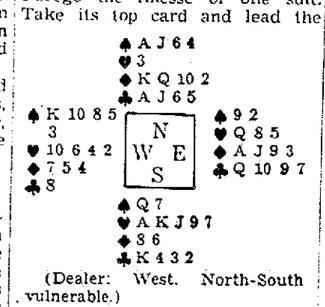
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LOSE ONE TO WIN TWO

A situation of fairly frequent occurrence is that in which you come down toward the end of the play and have possible finesses remaining in two suits. If they are both toward the same defender's hand, and especially if indications are that both of them will lose, you are better off not to try them both. You are then face to face with a marked invitation to attempt a lead-throwing end-play. Forego the finesse of one suit. Take its top card and lead the other to the man marked as having the winner. When he takes it he must then pitch right back into the fork of your second finesse.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♦	Dbl	Rdbl
1 ♠	1 NT	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 NT

As soon as the spade 9 was led and North saw the dummy, he knew East had made one of his habitual shaded not-vulnerable doubles. With two tricks sure in that suit, he could get game with four hearts, two club tops and one diamond. The first trick brought the spade 7, 10 and J, then he finessed the heart J, took two heart tops and led another to set up the last heart. West won, switched to the diamond 4, bringing the K and A, and East used his spade 2 for exit, to the Q, K and A.

Seeing his contract certain, North decided to try for an extra trick by finessing the diamond 10. So he led to the club K, cashed the heart 9 and led the diamond 8 to the 10, the J winning. East put him back with the diamond 9 to the Q. All that North could do was cash his ninth trick, the club 9, then give up the J to the Q.

With four cards left, the diamond Q-10 and the club A-J, and East marked for two of each suit, with probably the missing honors in them, all that he had to do was lead to the club A and make East take the J with the Q. East would have had to lead back toward the diamond Q-10, trapping his own J—or that of his partner, if West happened to have it. There was no risk of West winning that club trick, as he would have failed to follow suit on the second club lead.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If East had made a doubtful spade bid during the auction, what is the soundest defense against South's 3-Diamonds on this deal, doubled by West?

The next meeting will be held Nov. 17 at the home of Mrs. Bert Harbaugh, 11 Williams avenue.

strict a poker face as I could as Adams went on.

"Lucky for me," Adams said, "the curtain was drawn just enough so I could see inside. I saw Mr. Veritzen sprawled on the couch, and thought his wife probably was in the other room on the bed. I wasn't alarmed, because Milner never would risk doping anybody more than to put them to sleep.

"Then I saw Milner come tiptoeing into the room. He leaned over Mr. Veritzen, nodded to himself, then went out.

Saw Milner Switch Trays.

"In another minute he came back, carrying the tray that had been in our room, only minus one cup, then put the Veritzen tray on a chair and his own on the table, arranged it to look exactly like the one he was taking out, then carried away the Veritzen tray."

"He left nothing to chance, that baby," Dicky commented.

"No, he didn't," Adams said. "I climbed back up the rope to the suite above this, hurried out and did the errand Milner had asked, then came down to the next apartment. The tray was on the floor outside the door, but there was nothing in either the coffee pot or the cups. They'd been washed out."

"I should think he would have been afraid to do that," my father commented, "unless the waiter was an especially confidential accomplice."

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"Dr. Twitchell wasn't in the room when Milner switched the trays," Adams said surprisingly. "Milner came back here as soon as he had fixed Redfield up in Room 1522.

"Right after you left, leaving the young folks in this suite," Adams went on, "Milner took me outside, told me to go into a vacant suite and tell the phone operator, Miss Black, who is one of his stooges, to call him as soon as any call came from this suite, but to be careful, because he wasn't alone. He told her he'd then use a code to give her instructions.

"In a few minutes the call came, and after listening he said, 'Thank you, then, 'Wait a minute,' and turned to us.

"I think some coffee is indicated,' he told Dr. Twitchell, then turned back to the telephone, saying, 'Please arrange to have a tray with coffee and biscuits for three sent up.' Then he added slowly: 'My usual style, remember'."

Message In Code.

"That last was a code, I take it," my father said, as Adams paused.

"Yes, it was," Adams replied. 'Have the trays exactly the same, and bring them first to me' was the meaning.

"When the waiter knocked Dr. Twitchell was in the bedroom with Redfield. Milner told the waiter to bring in our tray and set it on the table, and while the waiter was doing it, Milner stepped out into the hall, as if to look over the other tray and see that it was all right. He's always looking after details, you know."

"Yes, yes, I know," my father said impatiently. "Did you see him put something into the pot of coffee intended for the Veritzens?"

"Oh, no," Adams replied. "He's too foxy for that. His back was toward me and I couldn't see a thing. But you can bet that's when he put in the dope.

"Then we three had our coffee, and then Milner got men to come with a stretcher, and we got Redfield settled in 1522.

Spied on By Adams.

"Milner had asked Dr. Twitchell to stay until he got back, and the doc said he would. As soon as Milner and I got back here, he sent me on an errand to the next floor, but I scuttled up to the apartment above this, which you rent, took the rope kept there and shinned down to the balcony outside these rooms."

My father shot a wary glance at me, so far kept in ignorance of this precaution, but I kept as

FILMSTRUCK

By Sheilah Graham

(Copyright, 1942.)

Everyone who was anyone in Hollywood was coming to the Premiere. It was THE picture of the year. And advance publicity had promised a first-night send-off worthy of the three-million-dollar production.

A dozen searchlights stabbed the sky. A red carpet, long and wide, extended across the gray sidewalk. A huge canopy, newly gold painted, rested on silver spears. Banks of flowers lined the forecourt, diffusing sweet perfume. Every publicity man from the studio stood at his post. A twenty-man orchestra played popular songs, with brass and drums predominating. Worried cameraman ran from the carpet to the street, pausing expectantly by every car stopping near the theater.

Ah! It was beginning at last! A man, resplendent in full evening dress, walked nervously to the microphone, clutched it with damp hands, cleared his throat and addressed his patient audience:

"Er—a good evening folks. Thank you for waiting. It won't be long now." He swallowed audibly, drew a short breath, and added, "your favorite stars will soon be here, and—"

The crowd of men, women and children—most adolescent girls—lining the pavement behind the strong ropes and jam-packed in the ugly wooden bleachers on each side of the theater, stirred to life. There was a general shifting and stretching movement. A young voice shrieked:

"Look! Jimmy Cagney! A solid phalanx of policemen converged on the long black limousine. But it was a false alarm. The short Irishman with the wide grin was merely the producer of the movie—and he smiled sheepishly as a disappointed groan followed him up the carpet.

Under cover of the sound, a girl sitting tensely in the bleachers said emphatically, "I wont give it up, I won't." She did not realize she was talking aloud until the end of her outburst. Then she smiled, embarrassed, looking swiftly to her right and left.

On one side of her a small boy mincingly mocking. "A good good good evening folks."

On her right the girl encountered amused gray eyes in a man's face that seemed vaguely familiar. His forehead reminded her of Tyrone Power. No he was more like William Holden. At second glance, he gave a fleeting impression of Robert Taylor. Now she stared at him, openly, solemnly. She decided he was not as good looking as Robert Taylor, but he was handsome in a strong masculine fashion.

He tugged at the lobe of his left ear and formed his lips for speech. But he smiled instead.

The announcer's voice ripped through the microphone, cutting the swelling sound from the closely-packed people in the rows of hard, wooden seats, and the girl turned reluctantly away from the gray questioning eyes.

Now it was really beginning. A woman star emerged carefully from a long, low-slung car. The police pushed back the clamoring fans. The vision stepped daintily on the red carpet. Cameramen encircled her. Some were on their knees. Others were pressed against her, their faces tense, as a dozen flash-lights exploded.

"Who is it? Who is it?" The crowd surged forward.

"Claudette Colbert!" piped a voice. The name rippled across the crowd like a breeze over a cornfield.

"Claudette Colbert!" A thin voice screamed exultantly, "We want Claudette Colbert! We want Claudette Colbert!" roared the crowd.

The star paused smiled happily, was enchantingly graceful, waved a little hand vaguely to include all the people who had waited—some as long as seven hours, just for this moment—then vanished into the theater, leaving with the crowd a jumbled memory of a smile, a white ermine coat, and diamonds that flashed in the white light.

After her first spurt of attention, the girl was aloof from the frenzy of excitement. She slumped back in her seat. Her eyes stared without seeing. She seemed to grapple with some, tremendous problem.

"Er - Claudette Colbert isn't your favorite?" said the man on her right. He had watched her during the noisy demonstration. He was diffident, and not given to over-much speech, but he wanted her to look at him again. They were close on the wooden seat and the warmth of her young body was as tangible as the night. But she had withdrawn to her somber thoughts and did not hear. So he added a little louder this time, "She's a nice person."

The girl abandoned her dream and turned slowly to him.

"Who's a nice person?" Her voice was just polite. The man was abashed but he rarely gave up once he had started.

Claudette Colbert just went in," he said with a hint of stubbornness in his soft voice.

"Friend of yours?" inquired the girl thinly sarcastic.

"Well—er - not exactly," he drawled. And then grinned, "I rescued her from drowning yesterday." His mouth challenged her not to believe him.

"And I'm Greta Garbo," she jeered.

He laughed. There was no resisting that laugh. Perhaps it was the night - the beautiful California night with its elusive smell of honeysuckle and fresh magnolia. It had been a hot day, but now it was cool, and the stars were crisply white in a violet-dark sky. She laughed with him. And then seemed to realize how close they were to each other. She squirmed a fraction of an inch away from him.

"You're an actor?" Her voice was cold.

He smiled, "No, I wouldn't know how to be an actor." He paused, waiting for her to say something else. But she was silent. He cleared his throat. "When a star has to crash a car, I—er, I do it for him. If he has to fall off a horse—that's where I come in. I'm a stunt-man. It's nice work if you can get it."

It was his longest speech in days, and he was suddenly shy. He looked at her sideways, not quite daring to brave her open regard. He fumbled in his coat pocket and brought out a small bag of tobacco. "Cigaret?" he offered her the bag, and smiled when she said crisply:

"No, thanks—I don't smoke."

"Good for you." He rolled the cigaret with expert fingers and wet the tip of it with his tongue. When he looked at her again she had slipped back into her dream.

"What's it like—picture work?" she asked him abruptly.

He was slow in answering. She caught an impression that here was a man who did not talk unless he had something to say.

"In the old days," he told her, "they used to fall off their own cliffs. There was no call for men like me. We weren't needed. Picture work? I wouldn't really know, and I don't want to. Acting is for girls." She was slipping away again. "My name's Bruce Nolan," he said hastily.

"What did you say your name was?" Bruce asked the girl.

"I don't. But it's Livia Clarkson."

"I'm Bruce Nolan," he repeated. He took her unresisting hand and solemnly shook it up and down.

"Oh," she said and turned to him startled.

"I'm glad to know you," continued the man solemnly. She liked the dry warmth of his hand. But you didn't go around shaking hands with men you didn't know. She must stop this right now. But how? It was hard to upstage a man when you were almost in his lap.

"Do I've live near here?" he asked her after another pause.

The animation drained from her face. She turned sharply away from him.

"I see," he said sympathetically.

"I don't think you do," she told him over her shoulder.

He scrutinized the girl. She wore a thin blue coat. It was open to show a blue and white print dress. He could just faintly see the curves of her soft, slender figure. He was glad she had the good sense to dispense with a hat. He hated women's hats. But for this girl, it would be a crime to wear one.

She had the most beautiful hair he had ever seen. It was parted in the middle, with waves falling to her shoulders in masses of softly-tangled curls. She had the tender milky-white skin that sometimes goes with light auburn hair. Would she be angry if he touched it? Her clear eyes were neither blue nor gray, but a mixture of both. He judged her to be seventeen. He was wrong by a year. She was eighteen. Then a fat woman in front of him fainted, and he forgot the girl.

It was a new thrill for the crowd.

"Get back to your seats," Bruce commanded. He shouldered the gawkers away, put his weight behind the inert woman and gently propelled her. He was followed by a bewildered little man who seemed to belong to the fat woman.

"Oh, dear, oh dear," murmured the little man. "It's all my fault."

"Go to the drug store on the corner," Bruce cut him short. "Get some brandy." The little man stared without moving. "Here's some money." Bruce pulled out a $5 bill from his pocket. But the fat woman was regaining consciousness.

"What?—Where?" Her head teetered grotesquely from side to side, while her eyes painfully took in the scene. Suddenly she became furious with the little man. "We've lost our place," she screamed.

Bruce slipped away grinning at her abuse. He searched among the sea of heads for the girl with the lovely hair. But she had vanished.

"Darn it," he muttered softly. He would like to know her story. Was she one of the thousands of film-struck girls who come every year to Los Angeles following the vain will-o'-the-wisp of stardom? And get a job as waitress — if they're lucky? He wished—but what was the use of wishing? She was gone, and the chances of seeing her again were one in ten thousand. He was suddenly annoyed by the clamor, bright lights and dream-like pageantry. He jammed his soft felt hat over his eyes. And went home.

Livia Clarkson was that rare product of Los Angeles a local-born girl. Her birth had occurred in the luxurious, hotel-like Good Samaritan hospital.

The Clarksons were wealthy in those days. They lived in a beautiful Spanish house in the Los Feliz Hills, set like a crown on five acres of terraced gardens. The rooms were high, white and cool. It was Livia's favorite story as a child to hear her mother describe the splendors of the house in which she had lived only a brief three months after her journey from the hospital.

Livia never knew her father. She was told he had died before she was born. There was only one picture of him in her mother's faded leather album. He had a handsome, challenging face, rather like Livia's. Long, long ago Livia had ceased her questionings about the man who was her father. It was a taboo subject. She would never forget her mother's wild weeping when Livia, then a thin, freckle-faced, tomboy of eleven, had demanded:

"Why don't you tell me about my father? Was there anything wrong with him?"

She was bewildered by her mother's answer—a torrent of hysterical tears — and flung her thin, adolescent arms around her mother's trembling shoulders, and stared aghast at her sister Vera, who shook her head in equal bewilderment.

Afterward, she and Vera—Vera was three years older than Livia—believed that their parents had loved each other so tremendously that the wound of their father's early death was still unhealed. Vera pretended to remember the handsome young man in her mother's album.

"He'd swing me on to his shoulders and throw me up into the air. We were such a happy family." And there was even less she could invent about their beautiful home.

Fable From The Forties: Jive and joy characterize Mary Lou Cook, of the Merry Macs, as you know if you've seen the Paramount stage show. When the curtain is up and she's out there singing, Mary Lou is a bundle of ebullience. Happy? Yes, she is happy, or as happy as she can be with her bridegroom of nine weeks, Lieut. Carl Baggee, far away in the Aleutians fighting the Japs.

Mary Lou whiles away the loneliness of her spare hours by going to movies — gay ones, sad ones, good ones, bad ones, A ones, B ones. The other night, between performances, she went to see "Wake Island" at the Rivoli. In the darkness of the first mezzanine, people could hear her weeping softly. But that's nothing new. Lots of people have wept at "Wake Island."

Drying her eyes, Mary Lou left the Rivoli before the lights went up and hurried back to the Paramount to be in time for the last stage show. She dabbed greasepaint on her tear-stained cheeks and got into her pretty gown—and by the time she crossed the wings she was all joy and jive again. But that night, she sang "Praise The Lord And Pass The Ammunition' as even Ted and Joe and Judd McMichael had never heard her sing it before.

They knew. But what the people in the first mezzanine of the Rivoli and in the audience of the Paramount couldn't know was that Mary Lou Cook's brother was one of the first Marines to die in the service of his country—and he died on Wake Island.

Barbara Bannister with a gay blade in gold braid at Bill Bertolotti's . . . Al Jolson at Ronnies steak house kidding that on meatless Tuesdays he won't even speak to Broadway hams

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

(This is the last of a series by Hollywood Columnist Robbin Coons who has been on a cross-country tour.)

HEADING FOR HOLLYWOOD —More train sequences:

Joe College just got on. Joe College and Betty Coed and a couple of dozen counterparts. They had a noisy sendoff at their college station, and they're carrying on up and down the aisles.

Coons

They're headed for the weekend football game, and before they've settled in their seats (if any) Joe College has his bottle out. Joe has a mild swig, which makes him exceedingly bubbly all of a sudden, and passes it to his chums. In no time at all that wicked pint is gone, and Joe et als are being just the devils while Betty Coed and her sisters smile tolerantly or frown disapproval—except for one Betty or two who join in the guzzling.

Joe College is the Life of the Party. He wears his hat turned back, and he leads cheers for dear old Alma Mammy. Siss-boom-bah, rah-rah-rah—just like in a college movie.

He makes with the snappy dialogue, too. Like. "Water? Water? What's water?" and again: "Milk? Milk? What's milk?" And yet again: "Water is something I drink when I can't get mah whisky." Boy oh-boy. Joe is in the groove . . . And if a movie producer were a passenger today he might get a colossal idea for a college movie—all about campus life. . . .

SOLDIERS, soldiers, more soldiers. . . . One of them is, in a manner of speaking, an ex-movie actor. He was in the company of authentic troopers who "acted" for John Ford in one of those Army training films. Both Director Ford and this "actor" have seen real action since those peacetime days—Ford at Midway, this lad in Australia where he won the Purple Heart. . . .

By the way, for the benefit of those sensitive movie actors who fear the nation's uniformed hosts will scorn them because they aren't all in uniform, here's comfort: I chatted with many service men, all branches, across the continent and back, and found most of them thinking (if they had thought of it at all) that movie stars who sold War Bonds and toured the camps were doing Uncle Sam a greater service than if they toted guns. "Those are jobs that need to be done, and they're the ones to do it," as one youngster said. Aside to striking war workers YOU are the boys that make the boys in uniform really growl.

LONDON—Gold braid and brass hats are thwarting Eleanor Roosevelt in her genuine attempt to see the British people at war.

She is surrounded by government officials, ministry of information watch dogs and members of the American embassy. She has been kept definitely under wraps.

She has seen the British people—but at 10-foot range.

Here are some instances.

When she went to see the Auxiliary Territorial Service in camp she asked them if they were comfortable and if they enjoyed army life.

With the commanding officer of the camp at her elbow and red tabbed staff officers standing by, what could they answer but yes?

Let's consider yesterday more closely.

Eleanor Roosevelt saw the little people of London who saved their own city—the typists, shop girls, clerks and plumbers of civil defense. But she did not have time to talk with them. The band was playing and she was watching the brilliantly efficient full-dress exercises they were putting on.

She saw rescue squads reconstruct with dummies smeared with red paint those scenes of blood and death they knew in the blitz. But there was not time to talk with them, except in the stereotype phrases of greeting and good wishes.

These people have stories to tell Eleanor Roosevelt—and through her to Americans.

I know she wants to hear their stories. It is not her fault that she is not given time to hear them. At her first press conference she told how she wanted to break loose and go among them unofficially.

She enjoyed herself when she met United States privates in the Washington Club because they were unabashed and could talk her language, and did.

But there is the same spontaneity, the same welcome in the British people, if they were given a chance to meet her beyond the shroud of officialdom. No official permits and no entourages of brass hats are needed to talk to the British people.

CURB PARKING FOR HALLOWEEN

Main Street To Be Blocked Off Friday From Fourth Street To Park.

No parking will be permitted on North Main street from Fourth street to Central park during Halloween festivities Friday, starting at 7.30 p. m. and continuing to about 8.30 p. m., Police Chief Thomas M. Bell and Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals, announced today.

With costume prizes ranging from $5 to $20 and totaling $150 given by Mrs. Ada Hunt as a memorial to her late husband Fred, who for 30 years sponsored Halloween celebration, this year's parade is expected to attract a record entry.

The marching column will form at McVey Post American Legion headquarters on Park avenue west at 7.30 p. m. Headed by the Legion drum corps, the column will march east to Central park, around City square and north on Main street to the Hunt news stand.

For a half hour the drum corps will give a program of patriotic music while the judging committee, headed by C. O. Lister, Legion commander, decides on awards.

With Chief Bell warning against property damage by youthful celebrants, Halloween is expected to pass off in its intended manner as a wholesome evening of frolic and fun. Violators of the police department order will be held in jail custody until such time as their parents can appear with them in juvenile division of probate court, Bell said.

CINCY MUNICIPAL EMPLOYES STRIKE, PERIL WATER SUPPLY

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Gov. John W. Bricker was asked today to intervene in the strike of several hundred city maintenance workers in Cincinnati, but the executive office indicated that the matter is "wholly outside our jurisdiction."

CINCINNATI—A walkout of Cincinnati municipal employes protesting "starvation wages" today endangered the water supply of half a million persons.

The city employes local of the United Construction workers, affiliated with the United Mine workers, called a strike at 8 a. m. to enforce demands for a 25 per cent wage increase. The union said that 1500 workers went on strike.

Carl F. Eberling, waterworks superintendent, said the city's water reserve would last only two or three days.

"After that, we just won't have any water in the mains," he said.

The walkout affected the waterworks, highway maintenance and garbage and waste collection departments.

George E. Rice, president of the local union, said the men will return to work "if city council makes us a sincere offer to negotiate a wage increase which will meet the needs of the men."

"This is a strike against Sherrill's (City Manager C. O. Sherrill) starvation wages," Rice said. "Families of the city employes just can't live decently on what they are getting now."

The union established a picket line at the city hall.

The strike vote was taken at a meeting of city employes last night. Union representatives threatened strike action last week unless the council acted speedily on their request for a wage increase. The council finance committee has been studying the 1943 budget to determine a wage offer.

Cincinnati has 5,061 employes. Existing wage rates are: Laborers, 40 cents an hour average, truck drivers, 52-55 cents an hour; waterworks employes, 56-58 cents an hour, power plant helpers, 52 cents an hour. The union has asked intervention of the War Labor Board.

GRANVILLE—(AP)—The war is a "one-man job—the president's not congress'," Sen. Robert A. Taft (R.) of Cincinnati said in an address at Denison university yesterday. He added, however, that congress should "criticize the administration constantly" and said more constructive criticism was needed.

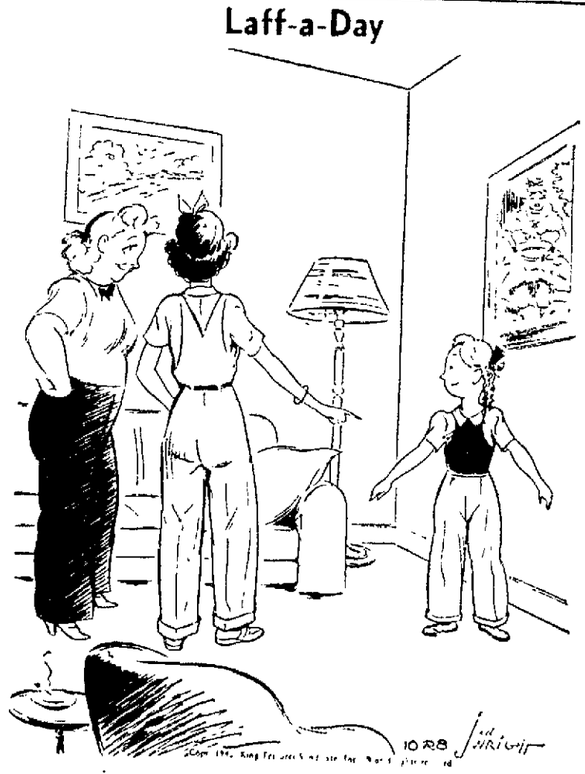
Laff-a-Day



"I'll never forget MY first long pants!"

Memories grow dim on some things as Raymond Winters, Lakewood, here over last week-end attending the 1922 class reunion at Westbrook Country club Saturday, found out much to his embarrassment. On the battle of sexes quiz program, Winters being asked who the sophomore class president was, sat down completely stumped, only to learn that he had served in that office! Mrs. Winters, the sister of Mrs. Ralph B. Chapman, was also a former Mansfield resident.

An innovation in the Navy day luncheon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel yesterday took place when the audience was asked to sing "Happy Birthday to You," in honor of the anniversary of Mrs. Lydia Thornberry, dining room hostess. Mrs. Thornberry was escorted into the ballroom by Henry G. Brunner and W. H. G. Kegg after Gilmore Hiett, song leader, had asked that Mrs. Thornberry be brought to the platform in recognition of the "courteous and efficient service" she has given service groups in her capacity of hostess.

Old Glory is going to fly from a new 60-foot flag pole at the Mansfield postoffice any day now. Ordered more than a year ago the steel pole reached here in time for Navy day but cannot be installed until the base arrives. Priorities on steel, delaying arrival of the pole until now, have left the federal building without any means of flying the flag excepting a make-shift arrangement attached to one of the upper windows. This has caused the department no end of telephone calls since every time the flag blows down certain patriotic citizens call the building to see why it is not properly displayed.

Without casting aspersions at visiting football players, Clare Kyler, assistant identification officer of the police department, would like to recover his new sweat shirt and gym shorts. John Fike, Y. M. C. A. physical director, entertains a similar desire. Kyler works out almost daily in the exercise room at the Y, featuring weight-lifting. Last Friday he purchased a new shirt and shorts for gym wear. Saturday the togs were missing. While making a search for the all-but-unobtainable apparel he was told that Fike's heavy sweat shirt also was gone. Kyler has traced many missing articles through fingerprint studies but is baffled in his personal loss.

BARES DETAILS OF SABOTAGE NAZIS PLANNED

Takes Chicago Witness Stand In Case Against Kin of Executed Saboteur.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—Ernest Peter Burger, sleek-haired Nazi saboteur, resumes his hitherto secret story today of the plot in which he and seven fellow spies landed by U-boat in the United States to sabotage key aluminum companies and railroads.

Burger, whose testimony before a military court at Washington, D. C., helped bring death sentences to six of his companions, was the first witness in the trial of the parents, the uncle and aunt and two friends of Herbert Hans Haupt, 22, one of the executed saboteurs.

A small man with a round face and oil-slicked hair, he told in thick German accents how he, Haupt and the others took an 18-day course in sabotage at a school at Brandenburg, Germany before departing from Berlin May 22 with eight boxes of explosives and incendiary devices with which they plotted to damage plants of the Aluminum Company of America.

"Our assignment was to damage and harm the ALCOA, the Aluminum Company of America," he testified. "We all received the assignment. Part of our assignment was to damage railroad plants connecting the aluminum plants with the manufacturing plants of the refined product."

Burger revealed that Haupt had disobeyed his instructions which had been given by Lt. Walter Kappe, former editor of a Chicago German language newspaper, who was in charge of the eight men.

"The instructions given to Herbert Haupt were first, not to visit his parents in Chicago after his arrival over here," Burger said. "Second, to get employment in the optical industry. Third, to register as soon as possible for the army."

Following their instruction at the school, Burger said the eight men visited plants in Germany, including an aluminum plant and railroad yards. He said they studied all vulnerable spots and how to approach them.

Each man was given a box of explosives, fuses and the "fountain pen" incendiaries which Burger identified in court. They carried them in seabags.

Hurray, Kiddies! Santa Will Have Plenty Yule Toys

CHICAGO—(AP)—The rumors that Santa Claus wasn't going to climb down any chimneys this Christmas with a bagful of toys on his back, were spiked today.

True Santa has been working against war-induced handicaps and many of his little elves have gone to military service or war industries.

But manufacturers and distributors in Chicago's merchandise mart, the source of information on Santa's activity, reported he was progressing handsomely in his toy-making business.

They said that despite shortage of material, severe loss of helpers and dearth of shops to work in, toy manufacturers were meeting the heaviest ahead-of-season demand in history.

They said that chances were excellent to maintain retail sales volume for the year at the 1941 level of $225,000,000, the highest since 1929.

Cline Scoring Rampage Halted as Butler Cancels Game

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Johnny Hallabrin, the old Mansfield high and Ohio State quarterback, is playing football again at the Quantico Marine base in a "now you play, now you don't season."

Seems the Quantico Marines, living up to an old tradition of turning out one of the toughest football teams in the country, had a really good team organized early this season.

But the commanding officer at Quantico ruled out the team with words something like these: "This is war. We're not here to play games."

So the team was disbanded.

Then the C. O. was transferred, and the new commanding officer looked over the Quantico scene and ejaculated in great surprise: "What's the matter here? Why haven't you got a football team?"

So now Quantico is back on the gridiron again, just in time to finish up a short season, and perhaps play a few post-season games.

And of course Our John, in officers' training at Quantico, and fresh from the Paul Brown brand of football at Ohio State, is on the team. But some of the other stars, with which Quantico started the disrupted season, are missing.

All of Galion turns its eyes each Saturday this autumn toward the stadium where Ohio State and Galion's Bill Durtschi are playing football, and in thus directing its optics, Galion has found much to be proud of.

But Galion also saves a peek for Rochester university, where the Secrest boys, Dick and Jim, are treating themselves to a great season.

Last Saturday Jim scored five touchdowns and Dick booted three extra points to account for all of the Rochester scoring in a 33-0 victory over previously unbeaten Hamilton college. Jim is leading the east in scoring.

They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs Lloyd B. Secrest, 303 South Boston street, in Galion, and both played football and basketball for the Orangemen.

I was talking the other night to a relative of Crestline's Bob Frye, who is also playing a lot of football this fall for Ohio State

"His family has enough money that Bob wouldn't have to work a lick during vacations" my informant related.

"But for years now Bob has been working on the railroad each summer just to get hardened up for football.

"No one likes to play football more than does this Frye kid," proudly proclaimed the fond relative. And that's the kind of boys, so I understand, that Paul Brown wants.

Madison Sees Game Sellout

Buckeye Game Packs Box Office Wallop.

MADISON (AP)—There is no old oaken bucket, or little brown jug at stake in Wisconsin's homecoming battle with Ohio State here Saturday but the contest between the undefeated elevens packs plenty of box office punch in other ways

Those who have been lucky enough to get pasteboards the ticket office expects a near sell-out—may see in action the new Western conference titleholder or even the next mythical national champion

Ohio State, unbeaten and untied in five games this season, has been parked in the number one spot on the Associated Press' nation's honor grid list for the past three weeks while Wisconsin, with five victories and a tie with Notre Dame, is in sixth place.

In action on the field at the same time will be Ohio State's Gene Fekete, fullback, and Badger Halfback Elroy Hirsch, two of the foremost sophomore backfield men in the country. Fekete so far has piled up eight touchdowns and 12 extra points for a total of 60. Hirsch has tallied five times and pitched one scoring aerial. For good measure there leading Big Ten scorer and ground are Badger Fullback Pat Harder center last year and Buckeye Halfback Paul Sarringhaus, who skirted through the Northwestern Wildcats for two markers last Saturday.

This game will mark the thirteenth meeting of the teams. Ohio State has won six Wisconsin four and two ended in ties. The last Badger victory was in 1918

The Badgers scored 34 points in last year's contest, enough to win two ordinary games, but the Buckeyes ran up 46 to whip them.

Ohio State Has Fine Array of Frosh Stars

Bill Doolittle, Dave Templeton, Walt Weimer Listed On Squad

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's 500-odd high school football teams—the toughest scholastic loop in the country and long known as the "happy hunting grounds" of the nation's college coaches—at last are steering their hot-shot athletes toward Ohio State university.

There was a time when the Buckeye realm's graduates were found performing all over the country, with the Bucks getting much of the secondary material, but the Scarlet and Gray is doing better now.

The state's scholastic mentors, while campaigning some 20 months ago to put Paul E. Brown in the Buckeye head coaching job, pledged they'd try to keep their better boys inside the state's borders, instead of sending them to the Deep South, the Far West, or to Western conference schools competing against Ohio.

And a quick look at the present Ohio State freshman squad would indicate the Bucks didn't miss many of the outstanding stars from the 1941 scholastic field.

Heading the list of newcomers who will be eligible next fall unless the 18-year draft law or scholastic hurdles eliminate 'em, is Tom Phillips, the one-man team from Berea. The 185-pound star found time last year to toss 21 touchdown passes in eight games, to score seven touchdowns, call the signals and boot 14 extra points from placement. The triple-threater was voted the state's No 1 scholastic player, and grabbed the quarterback spot on the Associated Press All-Ohio, recognized as official by the State High School Coaching association.

Also on the freshman squad are Russell Wolfe, all-state halfback from Upper Sandusky Louis Groza, the huge place-kicking all-Ohio tackle from Martins Ferry and Wayne Caldwell, the 1940 all-state center from Springfield

From the second all-Ohio of last year are Tony Adamle, center from Cleveland; Pat Breese, Hamilton's mighty guard; Joe Demando, sterling end from Massillon, and Bill Doolittle, Mansfield quarterback.

From the honorable mention list of the 1941 Associated Press all-Ohio, the Bucks obtained Mike Perrotti, Cleveland tackle, Charles Stange, Mentor end, Dominic Stumpo, Leetonia fullback, and Joe Whisler, fullback from Willard.

And if you think the all-Ohio boys don't play plenty of football, just take a look at those who won the coveted berths in 1939 and 1940 who now are with the Bucks.

From the 1939 first team the Ohio squad is making pretty fair use of George Slusser, Massillon quarterback: Paul Sarringhaus, Hamilton halfback, and Bob Shaw, the huge end from Fremont—who won the fullback award as a high schooler Bob Frye of Crestline was well up in the 1939 rankings, too

From the 1940 all-Ohio first string Ohio State received redhaired Tom James from Massillon, a quarterback in his scholastic days, and Gene Fekete, the Big Ten scoring leader, who shone as a fullback at Findlay

Unless the draft, or the cancellation of all football, solves the problem for him, Brown faces quite a chore in picking a 1943 starting backfield from such all-Ohio aces as Phillips, Wolfe, James, Fekete, Slusser, Robin Priday of West Jefferson, Doolittle, Whisler, Stumpo, Sarringhaus and Frye, and the present captain, George Lynn.

Other current Bucks who won high rating in the AP selections as scholastic players were Bob Jabbusch of Elyria, guard; Bill Hackett of London, guard, Gordon Appleby of Massillon, center; and Phil Drake of Columbus, back

Brown, who recalls too vividly the loss of Horace Gillom, mighty end from Massillon, through scholastic difficulties, isn't counting on the freshmen until next fall when all the grades are in and the draft status settled Gillom is the only high school player in history to make the all-Ohio three straight years, and he "flunked out" before he could get into a varsity uniform.

The freshman squad rated the classiest in Ohio history—and the smallest with only 43 members after several slashes—has these members in addition to those mentioned above:

Ends: Stanley Dixon Wyoming; Lou Holsapfel, Greenville, Jim Palmer, South Vienna, Henry O Parman, Dayton; Chuck Slemmer Upper Sandusky.

Tackles Charles Albright, Van Wert; Frank Garfield, Canton, Sam Gordan Columbus, Joe Kirkland, Fort Lauderdale, Fla: Donald Ross Cambridge, Kenneth Ryan, Cleveland

Guards: Warren Amling Pana, Ill, Bob Brinkman, Huntington, W Va Eddy Burrus, Toledo, Frank Clawson, Hamilton, Denver Duffey Toledo George Kesler, Springfield, Edward Montanus Springfield

Center, Bob Dorz, Cambridge

Quarterbacks: Jim Campbell, Huron; Jack Chabek Cleveland, William Craig, Columbus, Dave Templeton, Mansfield

Halfbacks: Dick Havens and Gordon Hobson, Columbus; Talmadge Jackson, Thomas Jeffries and Leonard Puhalla, Youngstown Ernest Savoy Lynn, Mass

Fullbacks Richard Dierker, Columbus, Walter Weimer, Mansfield Madison.

PREP FOR BULLDOGS

STEUBENVILLE—(AP)—Steubenville high school's Big Red scrimmaged with vigor today in preparation for their engagement Friday night against Canton McKinley's unbeaten Bulldogs. Steubenville has lost only one game this season, to Massillon.

STILL IN SLUMP

BEND, Ore.—(AP)—Joe Gordon, Yankee second baseman whose hitting in the world series was a tepid 095, is still in a slump.

He spent two weeks hunting deer in the Oregon woods—and shot 000

Rivals Unite

Rivals on the Mansfield high school football schedule of a year ago are seeing plenty of action on the Miami university grid team this season as freshmen members of the varsity. Bill Pecht, Mansfield tackle of 1941, now clears the way for Bob Laubie, hard running Shelby halfback, and Max Davidson, Newark halfback, while Jerry Christman and Jim Curry, also of Newark, are getting a lot of work in the Miami line.

Buckeyes Lead In Statistics

Hold Wide Margin Over Indiana Hoosiers.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Ohio State's pace-setting team dominates both the team and individual Big Ten statistics.

In winning its first three conference starts, the Bucks have averaged 384.6 yards a contest to hold a wide lead over the runner-up Indiana aggregation which has an average of 275.1 yards for two games. Northwestern is third with an average of 252 6 yards for three games.

Two Ohio State players, Gene Fekete and Paul Sarringhaus, top the scorers and Fekete also paces the ball carriers.

Fekete is far in front in the scoring race with 41 points and Sarringhaus is second with 24 points. Tommy Kuzma of Michigan is third with 18 points.

Fekete has carried the ball 74 times for a net of 375 yards. Pat Harder of Wisconsin is second with 99 yards in 25 tries and Sarringhaus third with 236 yards in 39 tries

Otto Graham of Northwestern leads the passers with 32 completions in 61 attempts for 512 yards. Billy Hillenbrand of Indiana is second with nine completions in 29 attempts for 141 yards and Tom Farmer of Iowa third with eight completions in 18 attempts for 140 yards.

Tygers Prepare for Homecoming Battle

Mansfield Gridders Come Out of Massillon Tilt Without Injuries

BIG OLLIE CLINE, the Fredericktown football star who has made a habit this season of scoring touchdowns in half-dozen lots, will tally no points this week-end against Butler.

The Fredericktown-Butler game has been called off, it was announced today.

Two weeks ago Fredericktown, in the midst of the best season in its history, with accompanying big gate receipts, attempted to have the game transferred from Butler to the Freddies' field.

But the Butler Bulldog, it was explained today, thought the thing over, found it was running into transportation difficulties, knew that it was running into a drubbing of the worst magnitude, feared that its few remaining players would be injured, and got Fredericktown to agree to a cancellation of the game.

"We'd like to be able to play a little basketball this winter," Butler officials said, "and at the rate our boys are being injured—two more were hurt in the Bellville game last week—it began to look like we wouldn't have five boys left to put on the basketball floor."

So Ollie Cline, second high scorer in state high school football, will miss out on his only scheduled visit to Richland county this fall.

Meanwhile Mansfield high school's Tygers, and particularly the ticket selling department, are hoping for somewhat warmer weather than the freezing temperatures of the last few nights when they tangle with the Trojans of Portsmouth in the Mansfield homecoming game Friday night at Stadium field.

The Tygers' biggest worry in regard to the Portsmouth game already has been erased. Mansfield coaches frankly feared the possibility of injuries in the Massillon game which would send a crippled squad against the Trojans.

The Tygers came out of the Massillon fracas in fine shape and will be able to send their full strength against Portsmouth. Bill Boyce, forced out of the Massillon tilt with a charley-horse, is back in trim and ready to go.

Indications are that the crowd for the homecoming game, with all its fancy frills, will drop back to the 5,000 mark. The extra seats have been removed from the cinder track, and Stadium field will be back to normal.

There are even seats available on the 50-yard line on the east side of the field, Ticket Director George Sherman has announced. Tickets are on sale at the high school and the usual downtown places.

The North Central Ohio league goes back into action with a full schedule this week-end, after dropping a lot of prestige last week in Marion's 20-0 defeat by Sandusky, Ashland's tie with Wooster, and Shelby's 54-0 pasteing by Canton Lincoln.

Friday will find Ashland at Galion, and Marion at Bucyrus, while Mt. Vernon goes to Shelby Saturday.

Other Friday games in the Mansfield area find Mt. Gilead at Loudonville, and Willard at Crestline.

Madison's Rams invade Bellville Saturday for what once was the big rivalry of the year on the Madison schedule, but which this year should prove an easy victory for the Rams.

STOCK MARKET DECLINES ON EARLY TRADES

Armour & Co. Swings Large Revolving Credit With Group of Banks.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks shifted to slightly lower ground in today's early market dealings but utilities and a few specialties were resistant.

Fractionally off at a moderately active opening were U. S. Steel, General Motors, General Electric, Chrysler, Westinghouse and Goodyear. Minor gains were posted by Electric Power and Light and Anaconda Copper.

Financial circles saw a likelihood of many more financial transactions by leading corporations in line with the overnight announcement that Armour & Co. of Illinois had concluded negotiations for a $50,000,000 revolving credit with a group of banks.

General Motors tops such corporate credits so far with its billion dollar deal.

Enlarged working capital needs in connection with war orders explain these bank borrowings.

WIDEN GRIP ON AXIS POSITIONS

bombers and fighters, roared over the desert battle ground, attacking enemy targets in the battle area and Axis landing grounds behind the lines, the communique said.

Fourteen of the Axis planes destroyed over the desert were shot down by Allied fighters. Ten Allied planes were reported missing from these operations and the defense of Malta.

(The Rome radio reported today that the desert battle "increased in violence yesterday after having continued throughout the previous night." The Rome report said that "although the battle is not yet over we are in a position to state that the Italo-German forces stood up to the powerful attacks unleashed by the enemy and repulsed them at all points.")

The British ground forces necessarily were moving cautiously through the sea of intricately placed mine fields which formed the major obstacle in the defense set up by Field Marshal Rommel.

Germans Lose Grip On Stalingrad Sector

MOSCOW —(AP)— The Germans lost a foothold in the southern industrial section of Stalingrad and fell back to the barren steppes outside the city today under Red army counterattacks while Nazi assaults were reported to have beaten futilely upon restored defenses of a northside factory.

Russian pressure against the German flanks both south and northwest of Stalingrad appeared to be growing and the invaders struggled ineffectually within the city, the Russians said.

Izvestia said the Germans had been thrown back behind the low rolling hills which rim the southern edge of Stalingrad, placing their front 150 yards from the city boundary, and chimneys of the battle-scarred Soviet factories in that area continued to smoke.

One Red army division was credited with killing 4,000 Germans and Rumanians in six days.

Pravda said that, because of heavy losses, the Germans were unable any longer to press attacks on all sectors.

WASP FLIERS IN REVENGE FIGHT

Men Who Saw Ship Go Down Under Japanese Torpedoes Continue Battling.

island and it included battleships, cruisers and destroyers," Sherman said. At the same time, a quota of badly needed reinforcements of troops and planes was being moved onto Guadalcanal.

"The Wasp was the flagship of a task force engaged in covering the movements of reinforcements into the island. On Sept. 14, the operations of our task force had caused the enemy to withdraw temporarily, at least, but the necessity still existed to support the reinforcing movement.

"On Sept. 15, there had been no reported contact by the task force, except that the Wasp's fighters had downed one four-engined Japanese bomber shortly after noon.

"While changing course, about 2:44 p. m., torpedo wakes were sighted close to the ship and three torpedoes struck forward, in the vicinity of the magazines and gasoline tanks at a time when the fuel system was actively in use for fueling planes and other planes were being armed with bombs.

"The shock of the torpedoes was very great. The flash of one torpedo extended over 100 feet in the air as seen from other ships.

"Almost immediately, fires broke out on deck and in the hangars.

"A great many heavy internal explosions followed, including bombs, gasoline tanks and ready ammunition. Oil and gasoline on the water caught fire.

"I had backed the ship around after it was hit in order to bring her stern into the wind and give the crew the best chance to fight the fire and also get clear of burning oil on the water.

"About 20 minutes after we were hit, a particularly heavy and violent explosion occurred in the area below the bridge. I believe it included two heavy bombs and other ammunition.

"We had hopes of saving the Wasp, but the explosions were continuing and the fire was spreading aft while the ship was listing down by the head. A great many casualties were being incurred by the crew fighting the fire, although we tried to minimize the danger.

"It was apparent that unless we got the men off the ship we were going to lose many more. The Wasp was settling in the water and the fire was spreading.

"So, after conferring with the task force commander and receiving reports from below, I gave orders to abandon ship an hour and 20 minutes after she had been hit.

"I personally left the ship after seeing my task force commander overside and taking a last look around, after which I went down a line.

"After dark, the Wasp was burning brightly from stem to stern.

"She was sunk by one of our own destroyers.

"The sinking of the Wasp had been reported so many times by the enemy we had thought over carefully what we would do if it ever did happen."

"There were many heroic acts on deck and in the water. A special tribute is due Lieut. Comdr. Laurize H. Tatum of the dental corps, USNR, who lost his life while ministering to the wounded.:

"There was Comdr. Michael H. Kernodle who gave lifebelts to others who couldn't swim. Kernodle and others also got lines and made them fast to a half dozen men

"One reason only a few men were lost was because they got together in groups in the water."

Elevator Operator Loses Skin But Not Life in Accident.

NEWARK, N. J. —(INS)—Irving C. Steinbrick, 17-year-old elevator operator, had his life saved a half inch at a time—thanks to a hard-working squad of cops and fifteen gallons of heavy lubricating oil.

When Steinbrick became wedged between the floor of his lift and the elevator shaft, every device to extricate him failed until the police tore off his clothes, doused him with oil and pulled him out a half inch at a time. While the cops above pulled, the policemen below pushed. They saved his life but not his hide, for with every inch of progress he lost an inch of skin.

After an hour and a half, Steinbrick was hauled out of the trap, yelling with pain but not seriously injured.

In the absence from the city today of Capt. Harrington, his wife advised The News-Journal that he had been told Lieut. Harrington, worn to exhaustion by days of battle, was eating a long-delayed meal in the wardroom of the ship when the torpedo struck almost in the location of that room.

"Checks and rechecks, more than 50 in all, have failed to reveal that Lieut. Harrington survived the submarine attack," the Harrington family was advised.

16 Killed In Detroit Train-Bus Crash

BODIES HURLED FOR 2 BLOCKS ALONG TRACKS

Crowded Coach Starts Across Track After Freight Goes By, Hit By Passenger.

PUPILS ARE AMONG DEAD

Investigators Seek To Learn Identity of Victims; Many Decapitated.

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT—Sixteen persons, including several school pupils, were killed this morning as a passenger train sliced through a crowded Detroit street railways motorbus.

Bodies were strewn along the tracks for two blocks, and some were mangled against the front of the locomotive as the train, a Grand Trunk Western passenger train arriving from Chicago, pulled to a stop a quarter mile past the crossing.

The bus, driven by William F. Clos of Detroit, had stopped at the Caniff avenue crossing while a northbound freight train passed.

Eye-witnesses said that electric flasher signals were operating, but that after the freight passed, the bus started across the tracks into the path of the southbound passenger train.

The front end of the bus cleared the tracks, but the locomotive smashed through the vehicle at its middle doors, cutting it in half. Most of the dead were passengers in the rear end of the bus.

Schoolbooks of the younger passengers on the bus were scattered along the right-of-way. Many of the bodies, some decapitated and others with limbs severed, were impossible to identify immediately.

The front end of the bus, hurled aside as the train struck it, was left on its side close to the intersection. The rear end was smashed to fragments and scattered.

Mary Alla, 12, one of the bus passengers who escaped with slight injuries, said "I was in the front end of the bus and all I know is that there was a crash then I fell down and then some-

Britons Look at Our War Output, Aren't Impressed

CLEVELAND —(AP)— American war production doesn't impress a couple British labor leaders stopping in Cleveland today on a tour of some of the nation's war plants.

"I can't say I was impressed with the speed and production generally," Jack Tanner, president of the Amalgamated Engineers union, said in an interview.

"The plants are new, well laid out, finely equipped, but there doesn't seem to be appreciation for the urgent need of turning out these munitions of war as rapidly as possible."

Tanner's companion, Secretary Arthur Bryan Roberts of the National Union of Public employes, shared these views. They reported women in England are doing a large share of heavy industrial work and that all rules tending to retard production have been lifted.

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Sailors who won't take "no" for an answer were blamed today by Mark K. Miller, taproom owner, for his brush with the law.

Five Draft Contingents Set to Leave

First Departs Tomorrow, Others Follow; 350 at Farewell.

Mansfielders were completing preparations today for the series of soldier "send-off" parties which will honor draftees leaving tomorrow and on the next four consecutive week days. Legionnaires feted the entire group at a big celebration at the American Legion last night.

The smallest of the groups will entrain on the Erie at 12:39 p. m. Thursday when 11 men from Board 1 will leave after a short program, commencing at 11:30 a. m., in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room. Men of this contingent have requested that no band accompany them to the station as has been the custom when larger groups leave, Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the Richland victory civic committee, said.

Prayer and a talk by Legion Chaplain Grover E. Swoyer and a few other short talks will precede calling of the roll by the acting corporal of the group. Presentation of gifts of Bibles or prayer books, by the Gideon society, first aid kits, by the Red Cross, books by the Legion, and address cards by the Blue Star mothers will be made as the men leave for the station.

A second group from Board 1 will leave at a similar hour and place on Friday. Board 2 draftees will leave at a similar time and place on Saturday. These contingents will be honored just as the first group except that a band likely will be available to head the parade to the station, Saltzgaber said.

Draftees from Board 3 will also leave from the Erie station at 12:59 on Monday and Tuesday afternoons following similar programs in the courthouse, instead of the Chamber of Commerce.

Approximately 350 attended the party given at the Legion, James Brownscombe, master of ceremonics, estimated. William Wing, a naturalized Chinese draftee, the first to leave this county, was among those enjoying the affair.

GETS HIS BARS

Gable Commissioned Second Lieutenant in Air Corps.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — (U.P.) — Clark Gable became a second lieutenant in the United States army air corps today.

The former heart-throb of the movies was presented his diploma along with several hundred members of an officer candidate class of the Miami Beach army air force technical training command.

The next step in the colorful career of America's No. 1 screen star is a military secret. He will be assigned to duty, maybe on one of the foreign battlefronts, or perhaps at a domestic post.

His commission came almost 72 days to the hour from the time he donned the khaki of an officer candidate.

'Veritable Hell' Struck Wasp Just Before Sinking, Survivors Declare

Mansfield Visitor Was on Destroyed Plane Carrier.

Eye-witness accounts of the sinking of the U. S. aircraft carrier Wasp came today from the lips of an aviation radioman who visited relatives in Mansfield yesterday and from others back in this country after serving in the terrific sea battles with the Japanese fleet in the South Pacific.

Two Mansfielders, Lieut. Fred C. Harrington, communication officer, and Paul Kopchok, pharmacist's mate, are reported missing as a result of the sinking of the Wasp with which both were assigned.

Explosions of plane-born bombs on the hangar deck were a "veritable hell" declared James P. Sauers, during his visit with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Lincoln, 223 West First street.

Youthful William S. Jones, convalescing at his home in Perry, near Painesville, told of seeing his plane destroyed aboard the Wasp, of rescuing the plane's captain and of swimming through shark-infested waters only to undergo an appendectomy following his rescue.

"The first torpedo struck," Jones said, "when I was about 50 feet from the plane on the hangar deck. The plane was blown to hell but I didn't get a scratch. Fortunately most of the boys were off the ship when a big load of bombs which the Wasp carried, let go." Jones, 19, is rated as an aviation machinist's mate, third class.

"The moment after the torpedoes struck," Jack Westbrook, 18, quartermaster third class, said at his home in Tampa, Fla., "I saw the sub surface as a destroyer came up. The destroyer dropped a depth charge and I saw the sub break in two, then the bow went up and sunk."

At his home in Jersey City, N. J., Andrew Noone, radio operator aboard the Wasp, yesterday broke his silence maintained during a month's furlough when it was officially announced that the carrier had been sunk. Noone supplied a graphic description of the flaming inferno which resulted from the torpedoing of the "flattop" which was escorting troop reinforcements to the Solomons when hit.

Paying high tribute to the friendly efficiency of Lieut. Harrington, Sauers, declined to discuss in detail the facts surround-

In the accompanying photographs Andrew Noone, above, is telling his mother at her Jersey City, N. J., home of the sinking of the U. S. aircraft carrier Wasp on which he was a radio operator. Below is James S. Sauters, Ohioan, who visited relatives in Mansfield yesterday and described his escape from the sinking carrier. As an aviation radioman, Sauers told of his acquaintance with the two Mansfielders reported missing in action after the sinking of the Wasp.

17TH CONGRESS RACE CLOSE ONE

Outcome Seen as Determining Factor in Partisanship of Ohio's Delegation.

Outcome of the congressional race in the 17th district between Congressman J. Harry McGregor, Republican, and Samuel A. Anderson, Democrat, forecast as one of the close district contests in Ohio, will go a long way toward deciding the partisanship of the state's next congressional delegation, political experts believe.

A survey of the congressional outlook in Ohio, conducted by the International News Service, shows that the state's delegation to the 78th congress may be so evenly divided between the two parties that one district may determine the delegation's complexion.

Congressman McGregor, seeking his second full term, holds a narrow margin over Anderson, Robert Vincent, INS political writer, said today. He based his prediction on the results of the pre-election survey.

Both McGregor and Anderson believe that the Richland county vote may hold the answer to success in the district next Tuesday. Both candidates are devoting most of their time this week to cam-

U. S. Rushes Work on New Navy Aircraft Carriers.

BOSTON —(INS)— Thirteen new aircraft carriers are under construction today as replacements for the Lexington, Yorktown and Wasp in the American Navy, two high-ranking naval officals disclosed here.

Joseph W. Powell, special assistant to Navy Secretary Knox, told the Navy league that production of war vessels in the past 11 months "represents fighting power added to the navy nearly equal, if not superior, to the entire fleet as it existed two years ago."

Captain Leland P. Lovette, naval director of public relations, disclosed that the 13 new aircraft carriers are being rushed to completion in a talk before the advertising club.

HAMILTON TO BE RENT DIRECTOR

Gets $3,300 a Year Post To Enforce Freeze Orders of OPA District.

Appointment of LeRoy B. Hamilton, 884 Dickson parkway, as Mansfield's rent director at a salary of upward of $3,800 a year, was announced today by the Cleveland headquarters of the Office of Price Administration.

Hamilton's wife is secretary of the Richland county rationing board and serves in a similar capacity with the recently announced gasoline rationing advisory board.

In a dispatch from the Office of War Information today it was learned that rent director salaries range from $3,800 to $5,600, with an indication that Hamilton's wages will be the lower figure.

For a number of years Hamilton was affiliated with the loan company business in Mansfield, retiring about two years ago following absorption of the firm by another concern.

As a war measure the government has placed ceilings on rents for the duration of the emergency, freezing rents at the rate which prevailed last March. Hamilton could not be reached today although Mrs. Hamilton said no information had been received concerning the appointment up to this morning.

You would be surprised, wouldn't you, if it turned out that you were a better judge of ads than you thought, and received part of the $750 being offered in the Community Survey awards?

There are only two ways to conduct a survey. One is to send interviewers to your homes. You might be busy when they came. You might not give the right answers because hte interviewer unintentionally could suggest the wrong answers.

The other, and perfect way to conduct a survey is to have you do it voluntarily on your own time, sitting comfortably at home, without anyone hurrying or bothering you.

PAY INCREASE HALT ORDERED FOR DURATION

Widespread Freeze Order on Salaries, Wages Set Up By Director Byrnes.

HITS PRESIDENT, TOO

Few Exceptions to Edict of Economic Czar Allowed In Inflation Fight.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — That joyous cry, "I got a raise," is out for the duration.

For both captains of industry, and wage earners, the old pay check is going to look the same every pay day, with some few exceptions here and there.

Regulations issued yesterday by Economic Director James F. Byrnes and approved by President Roosevelt generally limit public and private salaries, except those fixed by statute, to $25,000 a year and freezes all salaries and wages up to that amount.

The purpose was to discourage wartime inflation and at the same time increase federal tax revenues by causing corporations to retain amounts formerly paid out in high salaries. The corporations thus would be required to pay taxes levied at a higher rate than on individual earned income.

While there was no regulation preventing a salary decrease, any increase, with certain exceptions, must have approval of the war labor board or treasury.

The president, whose $75,000 salary is the only statutory federal increment exceeding $25,000, has asked the treasury, Byrnes said, that his pay be limited within the regulations.

Allowing for tax deductions and other allowances, treasury officials estimated that a person would have to make more than $67,000 a year to be affected by the $25,000 limitation.

Increases may be granted automatically in these classifications in cases of individual promotions or reclassifications: individual merit increases within established salary rate ranges; operation of an established system of salary increases based on service; increased productivity under an incentive plan, and in the operation of a trainee system.

COLD STAYS

Mercury Drops to 22 But It Will Be Warmer Tonight.

Indicating an early major offensive, Old Man Winter contacted early-rising Mansfielders today with a low temperature of 22 degrees, the lowest Oct. 28 recording since 1925 when the mercury skidded to 17 above zero. Yesterday's low was 23.

Lessening of the skirmish with mittens and heavier underwear is seen in the forecast of warmer weather for tonight and tomorrow. Ice shimmered up at the toiler as he trudged to work in the wartime darkness of the smaller hours but vanished with the brightening sun of midday.

High temperature recording to the 24-hour period ending at noon was 41, for an average of 33.5 as compared to a 17-year mean of 46.4 degrees. At noon the thermometer registered 45.

Army, Marines Repulse Enemy Land Thrusts

Tokyo Lets Up on Fantastic Claim American Fleet Is Destroyed.

(By United Press)

Tokyo said today that a naval battle in the southern Pacific still was raging, although previous Japanese reports had claimed that the United States fleet was "destroyed" in the Solomon islands area Monday.

The Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi, quoted by the official German DNB agency, said, "we are really curious to know how Washington will try to keep secret from the U. S. American people the crushing defeat of the U. S. fleet."

Then it added:

"Although the naval battle in the southern Pacific is still in progress and the final result, therefore, cannot be foreseen, it can, however, be said, according to local naval quarters, that this is one of the greatest naval battles since the outbreak of the war."

"The enemy has attempted here to start an offensive against the Solomon isles and the Japanese naval formations stationed there by using the strongest forces in order to bring about a decision in this theater of operations," the newspaper continued.

"This attempt has become a complete failure."

Nichi Nichi, like the rest of the Japanese press and despite its statement that the battle still was in progress, then claimed that "the main enemy forces were annihilated" Monday.

Naval Battle Rages On, Two More Jap Warships Sent To Bottom.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—American and Japanese warships boiled through the southwest Pacific in a titanic slugging match for control of the bomb-scarred Guadalcanal airfield today while on the island itself land forces were locked in mortal combat.

Latest reports from the battle zone showed action was continuing at a furious pace over a wide area and both President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Navy Knox said the results were not yet clear.

Two Japanese destroyers have been sunk, last night's navy communique reported, one enemy battleship has been hit, a cruiser badly damaged and a destroyer hurt.

(American sources in London said the U. S. Navy was greatly outnumbered by the Japanese in the southwest Pacific but that the numbers would be equalized before long.)

In the epic land battle on the north shore of Guadalcanal Japanese forces broke through the American south flank during the night of Oct. 25-26 but were thrown back by army troops who regained their temporarily lost positions.

On the west flank, held by marines against a smashing series of attacks that have been under way since last Friday, the navy reported the enemy was forced to

VICTORS: British Score In Largest Tank Clash of Drive

BULLETIN

CAIRO—(AP)—United States fighter pilots bagged seven of the 18 Axis planes shot down yesterday over North African battle areas, for their best score since the start of the new Allied offensive in Egypt.

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO—The next phase of the new battle for North Africa was shaping up today in the widening gaps in the Axis desert defense line as Britain's army of the Nile and Field Marshal Rommel's invaders rolled an increasing weight of tanks into the first clashes of an expected crucial test of armored power.

A British communique which reported "further progress" Monday night and unabated attacks on the German-Italian line throughout yesterday said that the British came out on top in the first main test of armor.

"Yesterday," it declared, "an armored clash on a larger scale than hitherto developed. After considerable fighting the enemy were driven off with a considerable loss. Our own losses in tanks were light. Fighting continues."

Dispatches from the front indicated that the Axis tank losses already had been considerable, although the main mass of Rommel's tanks still were poised back of the battlefront, where they have been under continued bombing and strafing.

Prisoners who streamed back along the British supply lines said they had been under a deadly battering by the Allied artillery barrage which has been thundering since the outset of the British push, now in its fifth day.

The Allied air forces kept Rommel's planes on the defensive yesterday except for a single attempted Stuka attack, and scored 18 to 6 over the Axis in planes shot down in combat.

The British reported that the furious drive to open up a path for the heavier armored formations continued with "no abatement" throughout Monday night and Tuesday.

The superior Allied air strength was used night and day against enemy concentrations and forward

SMASHED: Nazis Forced to Retreat In Western Caucasus

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Red army defenders of the cliff-sided mountain road to the Black sea port of Tuapse have turned the tables on the Nazis in the western Caucasus with a smashing counter-assault which forced the Germans into a retreat that started several days ago, battlefront dispatches reported today.

In Stalingrad, a German onslaught renewed at deadly cost, gained the invaders two more debris-littered streets, but the main Russian lines held, and northwest of the besieged city the Red army's relief offensive bit menacingly deeper into the German flank across the sodden steppes.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, said autumn rains had turned the Don-Volga steppes northwest of Stalingrad into a quagmire where the enemy's mechanized forces bogged down.

There Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's attack on the Nazi flank was said to have scored steady gains. Pravda disclosed that the Germans were driven from a key defense position there three days ago, and had lost 7,000 men in a hail of mortar and rifle fire which beat off their attempts to recapture it.

In this salient alone the Germans were said to have lost 57 tanks destroyed and 150 damaged and captured.

Red Star said the Russians had recaptured an important hill in the active defense of the Caucasian Black sea coast and continued to press the enemy.

Ambushed in a deep ravine, a regiment of Axis infantry escaped only with the loss of about two

Calls Scheme Preposterous

Harridge Scoffs at Major Reshuffling.

CHICAGO—(INS)—If there is any move on to re-shuffle the clubs of the American and National leagues so that all the eastern clubs will be in one circuit and the western teams in another, President Will Harridge of the American league knows nothing about it, he declared today.

The report originated in the east where an unidentified major league executive was quoted as saying the proposal would be considered at the December meetings of the majors in Chicago in the interest of doing away with long railroad jumps and overnight trips. This was Harridge's comment:

"The thing is preposterous. Such a scheme definitely is not under consideration. We are going ahead on the assumption we will carry out our regular schedule with the make-up of the leagues the same as it is now.

'Of course this is wartime and we can't tell what will happen between now and next year, but you may be sure there is no present intention of changing our plans."

The next activity of the major leagues was set for next Monday Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis announced the two leagues would hold their annual draft meeting in his office to claim players from the minors for the 1943 season

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Johnny Hallabrin, the old Mansfield high and Ohio State quarterback, is playing football again at the Quantico Marine base in a "now you play, now you don't season."

Seems the Quantico Marines, living up to an old tradition of turning out one of the toughest football teams in the country, had a really good team organized early this season.

But the commanding officer at Quantico ruled out the team with words something like these: "This is war. We're not here to play games."

So the team was disbanded.

Then the C. O. was transferred, and the new commanding officer looked over the Quantico scene and ejaculated in great surprise: "What's the matter here? Why haven't you got a football team?"

So now Quantico is back on the gridiron again, just in time to finish up a short season, and perhaps play a few post-season games.

And of course Our John, in officers' training at Quantico, and fresh from the Paul Brown brand of football at Ohio State, is on the team. But some of the other stars, with which Quantico started the disrupted season, are missing.

All of Galion turns its eyes each Saturday this autumn toward the stadium where Ohio State and Galion's Bill Durtschi are playing football, and in thus directing its optics, Galion has found much to be proud of.

But Galion also saves a peek for Rochester university, where the Secrest boys, Dick and Jim, are treating themselves to a great season.

Last Saturday Jim scored five touchdowns and Dick booted three extra points to account for all of the Rochester scoring in a 33-0 victory over previously unbeaten Hamilton college. Jim is leading the east in scoring.

They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Secrest, 303 South Boston street, in Galion, and both played football and basketball for the Orangemen.

* * *

I was talking the other night to a relative of Crestline's Bob Frye, who is also playing a lot of football this fall for Ohio State.

"His family has enough money that Bob wouldn't have to work a lick during vacations," my informant related

"But for years now, Bob has been working on the railroad each summer, just to get hardened up for football.

* * *

"No one likes to play football more than does this Frye kid," proudly proclaimed the fond relative. And that's the kind of boys, so I understand, that Paul Brown wants.

Madison Sees Game Sellout

Buckeye Game Packs Box Office Wallop.

MADISON—(AP)—There is no old oaken bucket or little brown jug at stake in Wisconsin's homecoming battle with Ohio State here Saturday but the contest between the undefeated elevens packs plenty of box office punch in other ways

Those who have been lucky enough to get pasteboards—the ticket office expects a near sellout—may see in action the new Western conference titleholder or even the next mythical national champion.

Ohio State, unbeaten and untied in five games this season, has been parked in the number one spot on the Associated Press' nation's honor grid list for the past three weeks while Wisconsin, with five victories and a tie with Notre Dame, is in sixth place.

In action on the field at the same time will be Ohio State's Gene Fekete, fullback, and Badger Halfback Elroy Hirsch, two of the foremost sophomore backfield men in the country. Fekete so far has piled up eight touchdowns and 12 extra points for a total of 60. Hirsch has tallied five times and pitched one scoring aerial. For good measure there leading Big Ten scorer and ground are Badger Fullback Pat Harder gainer last year, and Buckeye Halfback Paul Sarringhaus, who skinned through the Northwestern Wildcats for two markers last Saturday

This game will mark the thirteenth meeting of the teams Ohio State has won six, Wisconsin four and two ended in ties. The last Badger victory was in 1918

The Badgers scored 34 points in last year's contest, enough to win two ordinary games, but the Buckeyes ran up 46 to whip them.

Ohio State Has Fine Array of Frosh Stars

Bill Doolittle, Dave Templeton, Walt Weimer Listed On Squad

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's 500-odd high school football teams—the toughest scholastic loop in the country and long known as the "happy hunting grounds" of the nation's college coaches—at last are steering their hot-shot athletes toward Ohio State university.

There was a time when the Buckeye realm's graduates were found performing all over the country, with the Bucks getting much of the secondary material, but the Scarlet and Gray is doing better now.

The state's scholastic mentors, while campaigning some 20 months ago to put Paul E. Brown in the Buckeye head coaching job, pledged they'd try to keep their better boys inside the state's borders, instead of sending them to the Deep South, the Far West, or to Western conference schools competing against Ohio.

And a quick look at the present Ohio State freshman squad would indicate the Bucks didn't miss many of the outstanding stars from the 1941 scholastic field.

Heading the list of newcomers who will be eligible next fall unless the 18-year draft law or scholastic hurdles eliminate 'em, is Tom Phillips, the one-man team from Berea. The 185-pound star found time last year to toss 21 touchdown passes in eight games, to score seven touchdowns, call the signals and boot 14 extra points from placement. The triple-threater was voted the state's No. 1 scholastic player, and grabbed the quarterback spot on the Associated Press All-Ohio, recognized as official by the State High School Coaching association.

Also on the freshman squad are Russell Wolfe, all-state halfback from Upper Sandusky, Louis Groza, the huge place-kicking all-Ohio tackle from Martins Ferry and Wayne Caldwell, the 1940 all-state center from Springfield.

From the second all-Ohio of last year are Tony Adamle, center from Cleveland; Pat Breese, Hamilton's mighty guard; Joe Demando, sterling end from Massillon, and Bill Doolittle, Mansfield quarterback.

From the honorable mention list of the 1941 Associated Press all-Ohio, the Bucks obtained Mike Perrotti, Cleveland tackle; Charles Stange, Mentor end, Dominic Stumpo, Leetonia fullback, and Joe Whisler, fullback from Willard.

And if you think the all-Ohio boys don't play plenty of football, just take a look at those who won the coveted berths in 1939 and 1940 who now are with the Bucks.

From the 1939 first team the Ohio squad is making pretty fair use of George Slusser, Massillon quarterback; Paul Sarringhaus, Hamilton halfback, and Bob Shaw, the huge end from Fremont—who won the fullback award as a high schooler. Bob Frye of Crestline was well up in the 1939 rankings, too.

From the 1940 all-Ohio first string Ohio State received redhaired Tom James from Massillon, a quarterback in his scholastic days, and Gene Fekete, the Big Ten scoring leader, who shone as a fullback at Findlay.

Unless the draft, or the cancellation of all football, solves the problem for him, Brown faces quite a chore in picking a 1943 starting backfield from such all-Ohio aces as Phillips, Wolfe, James, Fekete, Slusser, Robin Friday of West Jefferson, Doolittle, Whisler, Stumpo, Sarringhaus and Frye, and the present captain, George Lynn.

Other current Bucks who won high rating in the AP selections as scholastic players were Bob Jabbusch of Elyria, guard; Bill Hackett of London, guard; Gordon Appleby of Massillon, center, and Phil Drake of Columbus, back.

Brown, who recalls too vividly the loss of Horace Gillom, mighty end from Massillon, through scholastic difficulties, isn't counting on the freshmen until next fall when all the grades are in and the draft status settled. Gillom is the only high school player in history to make the all-Ohio three straight years, and he "flunked out" before he could get into a varsity uniform

The freshman squad, rated the classiest in Ohio history—and the smallest with only 43 members after several slashes—has these members in addition to those mentioned above:

Ends: Stanley Dixon, Wyoming, Lou Holsapfel, Greenville; Jim Palmer, South Vienna; Henry O. Parman, Dayton, Chuck Slemmer, Upper Sandusky.

Tackles Charles Albright, Van Wert Frank Garfield, Canton, Sam Gordan, Columbus; Joe Kirkland, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Donald Rose, Cambridge; Kenneth Ryan Cleveland.

Guards: Warren Amling, Pana, Ill.; Bob Brinkman Huntington, W. Va Eddy Burrus, Toledo Frank Clawson, Hamilton, Denver Duffey, Toledo George Kessler, Springfield Edward Montanus Springfield.

Center: Bob Dorz, Cambridge

Quarterbacks: Jim Campbell Huron Jack Chabek, Cleveland; William Craig, Columbus, Dave Templeton, Mansfield.

Halfbacks: Dick Havens and Gordon Hobson, Columbus Talmadge Jackson, Thomas Jeffries and Leonard Puhalla, Youngstown; Ernest Savory, Lynn, Mass

Fullbacks: Richard Dierker, Columbus, Walter Weimer, Mansfield Madison.

PREP FOR BULLDOGS

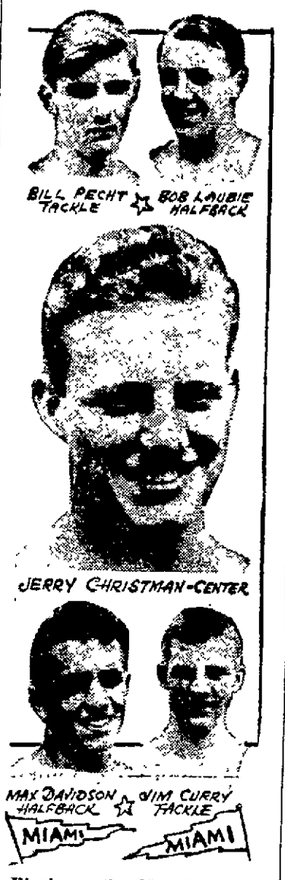
STEUBENVILLE—(INS)—Steubenville high school's Big Red scrimmaged with vigor today in preparation for their engagement Friday night against Canton McKinley's unbeaten Bulldogs. Steubenville has lost only one game this season, to Massillon.

STILL IN SLUMP

BEND, Ore.—(AP)—Joe Gordon, Yankee second baseman whose hitting in the world series was a tepid .095 is still in a slump.

He spent two weeks hunting deer in the Oregon woods—and shot .000.

Rivals Unite



Rivals on the Mansfield high school football schedule of a year ago are seeing plenty of action on the Miami university grid team this season as freshmen members of the varsity. Bill Pecht, Mansfield tackle of 1941, now clears the way for Bob Laubie, hard running Shelby halfback, and Max Davidson, Newark halfback, while Jerry Christman and Jim Curry, also of Newark, are getting a lot of work in the Miami line.

Buckeyes Lead In Statistics

Hold Wide Margin Over Indiana Hoosiers.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Ohio State's pace-setting team dominates both the team and individual Big Ten statistics.

In winning its first three conference starts, the Bucks have averaged 384.6 yards a contest to hold a wide lead over the runner-up Indiana aggregation which has an average of 275.1 yards for two games. Northwestern is third with an average of 252.6 yards for three games.

Two Ohio State players, Gene Fekete and Paul Sarringhaus, top the scorers and Fekete also paces the ball carriers.

Fekete is far in front in the scoring race with 41 points and Sarringhaus is second with 24 points. Tommy Kuzma of Michigan is third with 18 points.

Fekete has carried the ball 74 times for a net of 375 yards. Pat Harder of Wisconsin is second with 99 yards in 25 tries and Sarringhaus third with 256 yards in 39 tries.

Otto Graham of Northwestern leads the passers with 32 completions in 61 attempts for 512 yards. Billy Hillenbrand of Indiana is second with nine completions in 29 attempts for 141 yards and Tom Farmer of Iowa third with eight completions in 18 attempts for 140 yards.

CHARLES BEATS MAXIM

Tygers Prepare for Homecoming Battle

Mansfield Gridders Come Out of Massillon Tilt Without Injuries

BIG OLLIE CLINE, the Fredericktown football star who has made a habit this season of scoring touchdowns in half-dozen lots, will tally no points this week-end against Butler.

The Fredericktown-Butler game has been called off, it was announced today.

Two weeks ago Fredericktown, in the midst of the best season in its history, with accompanying big gate receipts, attempted to have the game transferred from Butler to the Freddies' field.

But the Butler Bulldog, it was explained today, thought the thing over, found it was running into transportation difficulties, knew that it was running into a drubbing of the worst magnitude, feared that its few remaining players would be injured, and got Fredericktown to agree to a cancellation of the game.

"We'd like to be able to play a little basketball this winter," Butler officials said, "and at the rate our boys are being injured—two more were hurt in the Bellville game last week—it began to look like we wouldn't have five boys left to put on the basketball floor."

So Ollie Cline, second high scorer in state high school football, will miss out on his only scheduled visit to Richland county this fall.

Meanwhile Mansfield high school's Tygers, and particularly the ticket selling department, are hoping for somewhat warmer weather than the freezing temperatures of the last few nights when they tangle with the Trojans of Portsmouth in the Mansfield homecoming game Friday night at Stadium field.

The Tygers' biggest worry in regard to the Portsmouth game already has been erased. Mansfield coaches frankly feared the possibility of injuries in the Massillon game which would send a crippled squad against the Trojans.

The Tygers came out of the Massillon fracas in fine shape and will be able to send their full strength against Portsmouth. Bill Boyce, forced out of the Massillon tilt with a charley-horse, is back in trim and ready to go.

Indications are that the crowd for the homecoming game, with all its fancy frills, will drop back to the 5,000 mark. The extra seats have been removed from the cinder track, and Stadium field will be back to normal.

There are even seats available on the 50-yard line on the east side of the field, Ticket Director George Sherman has announced. Tickets are on sale at the high school and the usual downtown places.

The North Central Ohio league goes back into action with a full schedule this week-end, after dropping a lot of prestige last week in Marion's 20-0 defeat by Sandusky, Ashland's tie with Wooster, and Shelby's 54-0 pasteing by Canton Lincoln.

Friday will find Ashland at Galion, and Marion at Bucyrus, while Mt. Vernon goes to Shelby Saturday.

Other Friday games in the Mansfield area find Mt. Gilead at Loudonville, and Willard at Crestline.

Madison's Rams invade Bellville Saturday for what once was the big rivalry of the year on the Madison schedule, but which this year should prove an easy victory for the Rams.

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember: Coke, being first choice, sells out first. Ask for it each time. No matter how short the supply, the quality of Coca-Cola carries on.

AMERICANS IN SOLOMONS HANG ON TO POSITIONS

Land Forces Repulse Enemy Attacks; Raging Naval Battle in Progress.

give ground in "heavy fighting."

At the Americans' backs was the prized airfield, built by the Japanese and captured by the marines last August, from which United States bombers have hammered enemy shipping for miles around. In Japanese hands, the field could be used as a springboard for an offensive against Australia.

Last night's communique told of navy and marine corps dive bombers, apparently from this same field, flying to the aid of two United States minesweepers which were set upon by three enemy destroyers. Two of the destroyers were sunk.

Another enemy destroyer brought a pack of Grumman "Wildcats" from the Guadalcanal field roaring down on it after it sank the U. S. fleet tug Seminole and a small harbor patrol boat near the island of Tulagi, about 13 miles north of the field.

The Wildcats, appearing after shore batteries had slammed three shells into the destroyer, strafed and, in the language of the communique "further damaged" it.

During the night of Oct. 26-27, Navy Consolidated Catalinas renewed an attack on an enemy force 400 miles northeast of Guadalcanal. They succeeded in putting a torpedo into an enemy plane carrier and scoring two hits on a cruiser before heavy anti-aircraft fire, which damaged one of the attacking planes, drove them off.

"Further reports on the naval air battle which was fought to the eastward of the Stewart islands on Oct. 26," the communique said, reveal that:

"(a) One enemy carrier was badly damaged.

"(b) A second enemy carrier was damaged.

"(c) One enemy cruiser was badly damaged.

"(d) One battleship was hit."

Both carriers had been reported damaged previously.

The navy announced the following recapitulation of American and Japanese losses in the Solomons campaign:

SHIPS SUNK:

One American aircraft carrier; three American and one Japanese heavy cruisers, six American and eight Japanese destroyers; three Japanese and one American transport. Three American auxiliary transport.

SHIPS PROBABLY SUNK:

Two Japanese destroyers; one Japanese transport.

SHIPS DAMAGED:

Four Japanese and one American aircraft carrier; two Japanese and no American battleships; five Japanese and no American heavy cruisers; seventeen Japanese and no American light cruisers; ten Japanese and two American destroyers. Seventeen other Japanese vessels and "several other" American ships.

Jap Attack On Allied Base In India Bared

NEW DELHI, India—(AP)—The Japanese were disclosed today to have destroyed or damaged at least 10 grounded fighters besides the previously announced "several transports" in raids on American airfields in northeast India, but their attempts to smash these bases of the U. S. army bombers and ferry service to China were regarded here as futile.

The new figures were made known in a supplement to an earlier United States army communique and disclosed also that about 50 Japanese bombers and 45 fighters engaged in one attack Sunday while 27 enemy fighters escorted five reconnaissance planes in a second attack on the same fields Monday.

Lieut. Edward M. Nollmeyer of Everett, Wash., was cited for particular mention. Single-handed, he took on the whole 27 at once, the communique said, and shot one down without damage to himself.

Speaking of both enemy attacks and AEF raids as far away as that upon the Linsi mine north of Tientsin recently, a U. S. army communique issued last night said "the lull in wide-range aerial warfare may be said to have ended with the monsoon."

DEMANDS CHANGE IN NEWS HABITS

New Yorker Calls on Navy to Put Cards on Table.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Rep William T. Pfeiffer (R-NY), in "an open letter to the press" said today that the country needed "a change in publicity practice involving our navy. The administration must put all the cards on the table face up."

"Washington has always been ready to criticize the newspapers and the press services for their handling of the news," he said. "On the other hand, if the newspapers attempt to criticize the handling of the news or the censorship they are immediately branded as 'defeatist,' 'fifth columnist,' or 'typewriter strategists.'

DEMAND FRENCH SHIPS

LONDON—(AP)—The BBC said in a broadcast to the continent last night that the Germans in Paris had called upon Pierre Laval, Vichy chief of government, for the surrender of a large tonnage of both French and foreign shipping in French ports.

What 'Commandos' Fight For Polish Refugees, Friendly House Need Help.

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles on the agencies participating in funds collected in the Community War Chest campaign in Mansfield and Richland county. Each of the articles will deal with one Community Fund organization at home, and one War Chest agency. A 'Commando' army of 500 starts Nov. 9 on its objective of raising $140,377.)

Polish War Relief.

There are 2,500,000 Polish nationals located outside occupied Poland who are in distress and to whom aid can be given. No aid can be given Poles in the occupied nation, because the Nazis refuse to permit help for them from any agency.

To help those 2,500,000 unfortunates, Richland county has been asked to raise $1,342. The money is used to send food cencentrates, packages and clothing to them through the International Red Cross.

The Richland county quota is part of a $5,000,000 national fund being raised for Polish aid.

Broken down, the national goal is set up to provide 50,000 food packages a month to 200,000 Polish prisoners of war in German camps; food, clothing and medicines for 2,000,000 Polish exiles in Russia and the Middle East; evacuation of 10,000 Polish children from the USSR to South Africa; and for aiding Polish refugees in Portugal, Spain, Palestine and Turkey.

Friendly House.

A $8,600 share of the money to be raised in the War Chest drive will go to the Friendly House settlement on North Main street, one of Mansfield's oldest welfare agencies, which centers its attention on underprivileged children and provides wholesome recreation and educational opportunities for residents of that district.

Records disclose that last year 1,224 persons were in active membership in the summer, fall and winter programs. Of these, 306 were girls, 573 boys, 31 women and 46 men. There were 268 children participating in the summer camp.

In addition to the active membership, there were approximately 350 men, women and children of foreign societies and organizations which used Friendly House facilities at least once a month.

This agency provides a free kindergarten for underprivileged children, does welfare work and looks after material needs of the children and their families. Last summer 291 children attended the Friendly House summer camp. A week's camping period was also provided for the mothers, many of whom never had vacations before.

paigning in Mansfield and the county.

McGregor was scheduled to speak this afternoon at women's meetings in Mansfield and Shelby and will address a rally Friday night at Shiloh. Anderson will speak tonight at a Democratic Colored Voters' rally in Mansfield.

Richland is the key county and most populous in the district which also includes Ashland, Knox, Delaware, Licking, and Coshocton counties.

Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield, who wields considerable influence in Democratic politics in Ohio, will speak in behalf of Anderson's candidacy Monday night at a final rally in Newark.

If the district races in Ohio are about even, as political forecasters predict, the congressman at-large contest between two Clevelanders, Democrat Stephen M. Young and Republican George H. Bender, may swing the Ohio delegation, the (INS) writer said.

Both Young and Bender are in congress now but the state loses one congressman-at-large this year, under the re-apportionment of the 1940 census, and one of the two candidates will be defeated.

The present Ohio congressional delegation has 24 members, including 22 district representatives and two congressmen-at-large. Membership now is evenly divided between the two parties.

Another close race in north-central Ohio is being staged in the Eighth district where Congressman Frederick S. Smith, Republican, and Brooks Fletcher, former congressman, of Marion, are the candidates. Both are from Marion. Both sides are predicting victory. Crawford and Morrow counties are in the district.

Mrs. Frances Bolton, G. O. P. incumbent congressman in the 22nd district (Cuyahoga county), faces the fight of her political career this time in a contest with James Metzenbaum, former Cleveland state senator, but Mrs. Bolton is expected to win by a narrow margin, (INS) Writer Vincent said.

His survey showed the Democrats reasonably certain of victory in the Third, Sixth, Ninth, 14th, 16th, 19th, 20th, and 21st districts and the Republicans expecting to win in the Second, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, 10th, 15th, 17th and 22nd districts.

'Veritable Hell' Struck Wasp Before Sinking, Survivors Say ing the loss of his ship.

Radioman Sauers said he was attached to the Wasp when the craft was commissioned in June, 1940. A native of Arlington, Hancock county, he enlisted at Cincinnati, Dec. 7, 1939.

"It was my pleasure to know Lieut. Harrington very well as he was our communications officer," Sauer said. "The lieutenant was constantly on duty during the prolonged battle with the Japanese fleet off the Solomon islands and had gone to the wardroom just a few minutes before three torpedoes struck the Wasp.

"I had a speaking acquaintance with Paul Kopchok, the Mansfield pharmacist's mate who also is among those reported missing. There is some reason to believe that these Mansfield men might still be alive," Paul is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kopchok, 756 Bowman street.

Sauers said he was on duty just below the flight deck when the Wasp was hit. Soon afterward the carrier became a roaring hell, he said, as bombs attached to planes on the hangar deck let loose with their deadly cargoes, set off by flames and concussions from other blasts.

"I went overside on a rope, dropped 40 feet into the raging seas and was afloat for more than three hours before being picked up by one of the escort ships," Sauers explained. Sauers, who was regularly assigned to an airplane fighting squadron attached to the Wasp, will return to sea after a brief visit in the Findlay vicinity.

OHIO AVIATOR WINS 2 AWARDS

OAKLAND, Calif.—(AP)—Lieut. Harlan R. Dickson of Ohio receives the navy cross and the gold star today for assisting in the destruction of an enemy airplane carrier in the Coral sea battle May 7.

Dickson, a dive bomber pilot, also was cited for action in attacks at Tulagi harbor. He "contributed materially to the high percentage of hits inflicted by his particular squadron and assisted in the ultimate destruction of an enemy carrier" in the Coral sea, his citation said.

MAD DOG SCARE

Rabid Animal in Lexington Leads to Alarm, Warning.

Positive report received by the health department today that a dog picked up Saturday by William Miller, dog warden, in Lexington was suffering from rabies caused warning to be issued to dog owners of that community.

The dog, a terrier, died Monday and its head was sent to the state health department for anlaysis. Another specimen, a shepherd dog taken from the same community, showed negative. Several other dogs have been reported to have been shot in Lexington recently but determination of whether or not they were rabid was impossible because they had been shot in the head, Miller said.

Miller, who was in Lexington today rounding up stray dogs, warned owners to confine their dogs as a protective measure and, at the same time to be on the look out for any symptoms of the disease. The first symptoms, he pointed out, include undue viciousness, followed by general weakness with death resulting in a few hours.

TOKYO ADMITS NAVAL BATTLE STILL RAGES

Tones Down Claim of Earlier Statement That American Fleet Was Destroyed.

Yomiuri headlined its story: "U. S. A. intention to start offensive against Japan has been frustrated."

Meanwhile, the Berlin radio reported from Tokyo that an order providing for reorganization of the air department of the Japanese navy will become effective Nov. 1. No details were given, except a statement that it would involve a considerable increase in Japanese aircraft production.

Tokyo also said that the number of Japanese planes lost in the current battle of the Solomons has risen from 40 to 49.

The official German agency DNB, in a Tokyo dispatch, said Japanese newspapers were hailing Monday's battle between American and Japanese warships in the Solomons area as an "unprecedented naval victory" for Japan. The Japanese asserted that the bulk of the U. S. forces was "destroyed" which "means the death sentence for the American fleet."

The exultation was based on yesterday's claims by imperial headquarters that four American aircraft carriers, one battleship and an unidentified ship were sunk Monday in a battle off Santa Cruz islands east of the Solomons.

This claim, which in the light of previous Japanese versions of naval encounters can be presumed to be highly exaggerated, was not confirmed by official American quarters.

The Domei agency called the U. S. navy lost "26 naval craft, including some of America's latest and allegedly invincible fighting ships," in the Solomons area, but did not clearly indicate over what period.

"It is now clearly seen by all observers," Domei said in a broadcast recorded in New York by United Press, "that the United States navy massed all available fighting craft on sea and in the air near Guadalcanal island to have it out with the imperial Japanese navy.

"It was now or never for the United States navy, which has been suffering heavily under a verbal broadside from the American public for its failure to bring home a single piece of good news."

American naval commanders hoped to "flash home news of a great victory on Navy day," Domei said, but the Japanese navy spoiled this in the battle off Santa Cruz.

Japanese newspapers also published prominently a recapitulation by imperial headquarters of its version of American naval losses since Pearl Harbor.

DRAFT BOARD IN HOLLYWOOD OUT

Three Members Quit When Decisions Are Reversed.

HOLLYWOOD —(INS)— Hollywood temporarily was without a draft board today, the three members resigning in a huff because the state director of selective service had reclassified 30 of their registrants 1-A. The board members said in their letter of resignation to Gov. Culbert Olson:

"We have decided that our judgment to properly classify registrants has become passe."

The draft board has many film stars among its registrants, but most of the men in its jurisdiction are war plant workers.

of the pupils in recognition of the work that gave each pupil an average of 149.4 pounds of scrap in the drive.

All of the school's 800 pupils participated in the recognition ceremonies yesterday as two separate assemblies were held for the grades so that the trophy might be displayed and the new projector put into operation by the showing of navy films in honor of Navy day.

John W. Graham, general manager of The News-Journal, presented the trophy at the high school assembly and it was accepted in behalf of the school by Msgr. R. C. Goebel, expressing appreciation for the award and complimenting the pupils upon their achievement.

The scrap song pupils sung each day while they were collecting 118,340 pounds of scrap was voiced again during the ceremonies and Robert Schnug, a student, spoke in appreciation of all aid that had been extended by friends of the school in making the record collection possible.

Msgr. Goebel presided at the assembly and introduced the various speakers including Carl Stough, Richland county chairman of the scrap drive.

Speaking for the parish families who had made the second school gift possible, J. Gilbert Baird, presented the motion picture projector. Thomas Dorsey, who had given the use of a truck daily in the school salvage drive, was chairman of the parish committee which arranged for the gift.

The U. S. Navy was represented on the program by Lieut. Eugene Lounsberry, navy material inspector stationed in Mansfield, who spoke briefly before presenting the navy films.

Other numbers on the program included songs by the student body, a recitation, "The Four Freedoms," by Joan Heiser, and the singing of the national anthem.

companies, it was announced. Soviet marines were credited with slaying 500 Germans and capturing documents in an attack upon a Nazi-occupied community east of Novorossisk.

Vain assaults upon Soviet positions in a recently recaptured community on the steppes northwest of the Volga river city cost the lives of about 850 Rumanians, it was announced.

Summing up the fight within the city on the 65th day of the siege, the communique said a battalion of enemy infantry was wiped out and five tanks, 23 blockhouses and dugouts and 40 supply trucks were destroyed.

The turn of battle in the Caucasus, where the Germans have been pressing an offensive for several weeks, was the most important development reported in today's military dispatches.

body cut through a piece of wood and picked me out."

Employes of a coal office, against which the front end of the bus was hurled, said two nuns were among the few passengers who were not injured.

Clos, who is 25, has been a regular coach operator for two years. He was taken to the police station in suburban Hamtramck for questioning.

Fred A. Nolan, general manager of the Detroit transportation system, said Clos was unable to tell a coherent story of the accident.

Officers worked nearly an hour to extricate the bodies of several youths who apparently were enroute to classes at a Detroit high school.

Along the right of way were found the bodies of five women and of two other persons which at first could not be determined to be either man or woman.

Several of the victims were caught in the undercarriages of the passenger coaches of the train, which ground to a halt a quarter of a mile past the crossing.

Joseph Levinski, tower watchman at the southeast corner of the intersection, said the bus was a Detroit Department of Street Railways vehicle, and that it had stopped to let a northbound freight pass the intersection.

"As soon as the freight train cleared the crossing the bus driver started to cross," he said. "He did not appear to see the southbound passenger train until it was on top of him."

The train was a through passenger train bound from Chicago to Detroit.

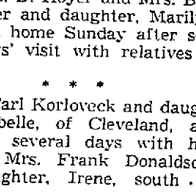
DID YOU RECENTLY COME TO MANSFIELD?



Families who recently have come to reside in Mansfield may feel that choosing a funeral director is not an urgent necessity. And that may prove entirely true.

Yet it is well to know something about the funeral services that are available in this community. When need arises, there is neither time nor inclination for investigation. Nor are recommendations always to be depended upon.

We invite consultation. There is nothing about our service that the public may not know. Inquiries carry no obligation.

WILLARD VOTES ON MUNICIPAL HOSPITAL LEVY

'In Red' First Time in Twelve Years, Institution Needs Funds, Officials Say.

WILLARD—Faced with a deficit for the first time since it was opened in 1930, Willard Municipal hospital will seek approval of a 1.5 mill tax levy at the election next Tuesday to provide operating funds. If approved, the levy would return an estimated $6,500 a year for the hospital for the next three years.

A request for transfer of funds, pending in Huron county common pleas court, would give the hospital a $10,000 emergency fund. The application is scheduled for action Saturday.

City council seeks permission to transfer the money from the bulging light and waterworks fund to the hospital fund. The petition point out that there is a balance of $73,000 in the light and waterworks fund, considerably more than will be needed this year. The transfer has already been approved by the state tax commission.

The city-owned hospital ran into difficulties in recent months because the war has drawn heavily on the staff and physicians are not able to care for as many patients, according to Rev. G. C. Heffelfinger, chairman of the hospital welfare committee and pastor of Trinity Lutheran church.

The city built the hospital, pays operating costs, and is retiring the bonds. Until this year, the institution produced enough revenue to meet expenses.

A vigorous campaign in behalf of the tax levy is being conducted in the city by the administration and civic and welfare organizations.

That suggestion of reshuffling the major league ball clubs into eastern and western loops to cut down on travel was an idea this department had been considering and saving to use on some dull day . . . We planned to go farther and suggest that games should be played only on Saturdays and Sundays, and maybe Friday nights, so that ball players would have a chance to hold down useful jobs during the week.

Calls Scheme Preposterous

Harridge Scoffs at Major Reshuffling.

CHICAGO—(INS)—If there is any move on to re-shuffle the clubs of the American and National leagues so that all the eastern clubs will be in one circuit and the western teams in another, President Will Harridge of the American league knows nothing about it, he declared today.

The report originated in the east where an unidentified major league executive was quoted as saying the proposal would be considered at the December meetings of the majors in Chicago in the interest of doing away with long railroad jumps and overnight trips. This was Harridge's comment:

"The thing is preposterous. Such a scheme definitely is not under consideration. We are going ahead on the assumption we will carry out our regular schedule with the make-up of the leagues the same as it is now.

"Of course, this is wartime and we can't tell what will happen between now and next year, but you may be sure there is no present intention of changing our plans."

The next activity of the major leagues was set for next Monday Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis announced the two leagues would hold their annual draft meeting in his office to claim players from the minors for the 1943 season.

Proposing to amend section 13 of article IV of the constitution of the State of Ohio, relative to vacancies in judicial office.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein,

That there be submitted to the electors of the state at the general election on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November 1942, a proposal to amend section 13 of article IV of the constitution of the State of Ohio, to read as follows

ARTICLE IV

Sec. 13. In case the office of any judge shall become vacant, before the expiration of the regular term for which he was elected, the vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the governor, until a successor is elected and has qualified, and such successor shall be elected for the unexpired term at the first general election for the office which is vacant that occurs more than forty days after the vacancy shall have occurred, provided, however, that when the unexpired term ends within one year immediately following the date of such general election, an election to fill such unexpired term shall not be held and the appointment shall be for such unexpired term.

Be it further Resolved, That, at such election herein referred to the above proposal shall be placed on the official ballot in such form as the secretary of state may prescribe, if the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, this amendment shall take effect, and existing section 13 of article IV of the constitution of the State of Ohio, shall be repealed and annulled. Adopted April 29, 1941.

SOLDIERS FIND STRANGE SIGHTS IN NEW GUINEA

Friendly, Primitive People Live Amid Magnificent Scenery on Island.

(By International News Service)

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA—If your son, husband, brother or sweetheart ever gets shipped to New Guinea he will see many strange and interesting sights in addition to the world's most magnificent scenery.

On a dull day a group was organized for a visit to a native village. There was Capt. Lloyd Fymbo of Sergeant Bluff, Iowa, Chaplain Lieut. Hugh North of Nyack, N. Y., and correspondents Hal Guard, Lewis Sebring and I.

Our destination was the home village of Mia, one of our native boys. As usual he showed up at the last minute, carrying a bag of rice as a gift for his family, and accompanied by two other boys from the same village.

We travelled along the shore through groves of food-bearing trees and plants that are not yet rationed. There were betel nuts, mangos, pawpaws, bananas, hatoro nuts, fruit trees, pineapples, yams and coconuts on towering palms.

A short distance from the village we left the car and waded through a stretch of thick jungle growth to the beach where we were greeted noisily by a swarm of tiny naked children. The older girls were dressed in grass skirts, the boys in laplaps.

They crowded about in hopes of getting cigarets and other gifts for posing for pictures. The girls were much like the maids of Bali but their bodies and faces are more gaudily tattooed.

The houses are built on stilts extending from spots fifty or so yards from shore. Families of seven children are not unusual. In this village 500 persons live in 90 houses.

ATTEND GALION MEET

CRESTLINE—A delegation of 16 members from the Women's Guild of Calvary Reformed church attended the Women's Guild India Lace Regional conference all-day meeting at the Reformed church in Galion Tuesday.

NUTRITION DEMONSTRATION TO BE STAGED FOR 4 WAR PLANTS

Enlarging the scope of the Westinghouse "Health for Victory Club" program the Ohio Public Service company Friday will conduct its first nutrition demonstration for home-makers of employes of the Ideal Electric Manufacturing company, the Gorman-Rupp company, the Barnes Manufacturing company and the Hughes-Keenan company.

Friday's program will be presented from 2 to 3:30 p. m. in the Westinghouse auditorium and the wives, mothers or other persons who prepare meals for workers in the four plants are invited.

Mrs. Irene Oberlin of the home service department, and Myron D. Miller of the Ohio Public Service company, will be in charge. Foods which will be prepared by Mrs. Oberlin during the demonstration will be given to those attending through a drawing at the close of the instruction period.

"This new club group will be continued monthly," Miller explained, "as nutrition is an important factor in maintaining the health of shopworkers and readily becomes the homemaker's duty as a war effort."

Meal planning guides will be presented each month to those attending the classes. At Friday's lecture-demonstration vitamin and calorie value will be explained and proper methods of food preparation demonstrated.

ENDS RED CROSS HUNT FOR ROOM

Mansfielder To Help Finance Rent on Apartment For Surgical Unit.

Richland county chapter of the Red Cross today ended its search for a new surgical dressings headquarters by renting a downstairs suite of six rooms in an apartment house at 57 West Second street.

A local citizen wishing to remain anonymous aided the chapter in taking over the new surgical dressings establishment by offering to finance part of the rent.

New quarters for surgical dressings became necessary when the general production quota of the chapter was increased this fall and because the dressings must be kept scrupulously free from lint and dust of any kind. All production had previously been handled in the Production Center at 43 West Fourth street.

Mrs. Louis J. Ott, production chairman, said today that the new work rooms would be prepared for occupancy as soon as possible and that it was likely they could be used by Nov. 10.

Material for 66,000 dressings is on the way to the county chapter from national headquarters and production must start as soon as the equipment arrives, Mrs. Ott said.

BARBER SHOPS AID STATIONS

Eight of Them Assigned as Emergency Units in Event of Enemy Attack.

Eight or more Mansfield barber shops have been designated strategic first aid stations in case of air raid or other enemy attack, according to an announcement today by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense coordinator.

In letters to Robert G. Taylor, president of the Master Barbers' association, and Walter Mapes, president of the Journeymen Barbers' union, Judge Kalbfleisch said:

"As coordinator of civilian defense for Mansfield I wrote Ray Ward asking your cooperation in establishing strategic first aid stations. On Oct. 15 I received your reports from Mr. Ward setting out the barber shops which have agreed to permit their places to be used.

"I wish to compliment you and the committee acting with you which included J. D. Mathes and W. L. Scott, for your fine selection and cooperation."

Ward is chairman of the barbers' committee in the civilian defense setup.

Shops which will be used in emergency are the Mathes shop in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, the Mapes shop, 76 South Franklin avenue; Boling's shop at 304 South Diamond street; the Perez shop at 131 Park avenue east; Weber's at 490 Newman street; Haminer's at 196 North Main street, and Taylor's at 20 Helen avenue.

LOANS FOR EMPLOYED WOMEN

We're addressing any employed woman in this community who has a problem which cash can solve. Borrowing money is never wise if it means making difficulties worse . . . but there are certain circumstances in which a well-planned loan is the best way to get out of debt many times. Obligations which seem discouraging when added up in a lump can be paid off comfortably when broken down into monthly payments. And when ready cash isn't available for needed medical or dental work, clothing, for training which will increase one's earning power—then a loan is also common-sense. Here at Personal Finance Company we specialize in serving women. If you need cash—$10 to $250 or more—we'll see that you get it without embarrassment or delay, without involving your friends or employer and without the need for putting up special security. We make loans on just your own signature—because we have found that business women, in this community, honor their obligations.

There is no difficulty in handling monthly payments on a loan here. For example:

$7.53 a Month Repays a $75 Loan in 12 Months

If you need cash, we'll be glad to serve you. Special quick service during lunch hour. Come in or phone then if that's best for you. It will be a pleasure to serve you
